Foreword

To present a dignified, yet colorful record of the closing year's achievements of the University has been the cherished hope of the "Volunteer" staff in this annual publication. If it will serve in future years to delight the memories of the present student body and recall pleasant associations, our task will not have been in vain. : : :

SECRETARY LOWRY AT HIS DESK

In composition the Alumni Association includes all graduates of the University and all former students whose period of residence covers one term. In purpose, it is dual; first, serving the alumni themselves and, second, serving the State. In organization it comprises machinery covering the State rather closely and reaching into the larger centers of population outside the State where appreciable numbers of alumni reside.

Its purposes are, of course, most important. For a graduate or former student to do for himself what his Association does for him his procedure would be about as follows:

1. Subscribe for and read all magazines, papers, periodicals and bulletins published on the campus.
2. Read all the new books published by University of Tennessee folks, faculty and students and alumni, on and off the campus.
3. Watch carefully all the daily papers and the better magazines for mention and criticism of Tennessee alumni; being familiar with their names and records sufficiently to recognize them.
4. Compile a card index and letter file for all the U. of T. folks. The family numbers well above ten thousand.
5. Keep in touch with all of these by correspondence.
6. Circulate around at Commencement, Homecoming, and other times; attend the games, concerts, convocations; talk to as many of the folks as possible.
7. Make it his business to know all the developments and improvements in his University; scent all danger signals.
8. Digest, analyze, and tell abroad all the information of these sorts he can get.

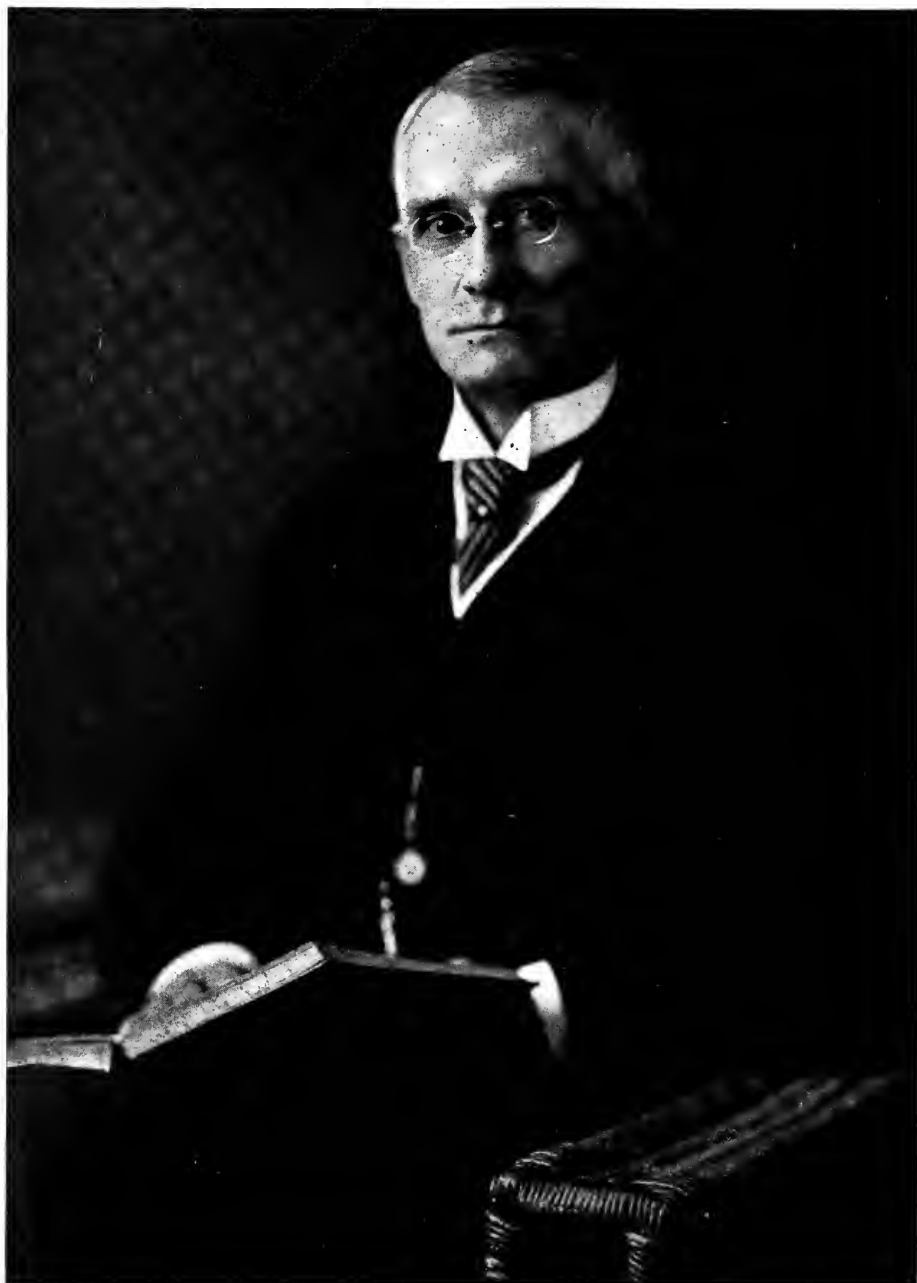

THE OFFICE

The second phase of Association purpose, according to the interpretation of alumni, can best be accomplished by improving the University's opportunity for service. Since the Association can serve the State best by serving the University, it lends its energies always to matters that will help Alma Mater.

The organization of the Association by which these purposes are promoted provides for three Vice Presidents, one in each division of the State. Each of these Vice Presidents is responsible for a certain number of regional chairmen. Each of these regional chairmen is responsible for the promotion and maintenance of organization in the counties within his region. The counties, of course, elect their own county chairmen. In this way, the entire State is covered by the Alumni Association. Alumni centers outside the State are reached from the general office direct.

JAMES DICKASON HOSKINS, DEAN OF THE UNIVERSITY

Future of the University

At the dawn of the second quarter of the second century of The University of Tennessee all of the factors necessary to the growth and progress of the institution are cooperating. The people of the State are manifesting an active interest in the University's development. The Alumni are giving enthusiastic and loyal support. The constantly increasing student body is by its sincere devotion infusing new life. As a basis of mutual confidence the State has pledged to the University its own name and reputation and the University in turn is pledged, in all its departments, to the service and interests of the State. We have every reason, therefore, to rejoice in the confident hope that the future will bring to the University of Tennessee a life continually enlarged for greater service and that the University will express with greater fullness the higher life of the great Commonwealth of Tennessee.

HARRIET C. GREVE, DEAN OF WOMEN

Girls at Tennessee

The advent of women into the University of Tennessee twenty-nine years ago was not a new idea. In the parent institution Blount College, founded in 1794, no reference was made to the class of students admissable, and the name of one of these early students is memorialized now in the name of the first women's dormitory, Barbara Blount. This student, the daughter of Gov. Blount, was not the only girl to enroll for the names Polly McClung, Jennie Armstrong, Mattie and Kittie Kain also appear on the roster. But none of these seem to have attained the same grade of excellence in her classes that Mistress Barbara did. In these days the records were not kept in calculating figures or letters but by the words "attentive", "diligent", and "ingenious"; of the five young women only Barbara achieved all three.

Probably the general conservatism concerning higher education for women was responsible for the college's becoming exclusively masculine in enrollment. However that may be, no woman's name was to appear again on the college lists for the better part of a century. More than once a motion "to take into consideration the propriety of admitting females to the University", failed to pass the Board of Trustees and it was not until 1893 that the propriety was deemed unquestionable. The fact that forty-five women availed themselves of the opportunity shows that the time was ripe for the action. About half of these were taking the special course for teachers, but twenty-three enrolled in the regular liberal arts course. Of this number, two were ranked as juniors. Miss Elma Eliza Ellis and Miss Elize Lucy Ogden, and in 1895 received B. A. degrees, the first to be awarded to women.

As we glance back today from the vantage point of our organized Women's Student-Government Association, Y. W. C. A. and numerous smaller organizations and many buildings for the exclusive use of women such as dormitories and Tennessee Hall many things in those opening years may seem crude perhaps, small certainly, but it was then that the foundation was laid. And none can know so well as those who came later to carry on the work how well they builded.

Harriet C. Greve.

MALCOLM McDERMOTT, DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF LAW

The College of Law

WHERE THE LAWYERS STUDY

There is no reason why southern schools and universities cannot match the very best the North and East have to offer. It is purely a question of what type of education we care to deal in. The South has fully recovered from those years of depression following the Civil War, and now stands on an equal footing with the rest of America, quite able to do its part in supporting the best brand of popular education. Southern schools and universities have realized that the best element of American youth wants and demands the best in education as in other fields of life. Therefore the raising of standards and the increase of entrance requirements has not cut down attendance. On the contrary, more and finer young men and young women are clamoring to be admitted.

Because of a realization of these facts, the College of Law at Tennessee does not concern itself about numbers, altho the striking fact is that with the present high standards there are more entering students than ever before. What really concerns us is the thoroughness of the training and the development of character that we can give to each individual student who goes out from here to promote the administration of justice. When these things have been properly cared for, numbers will take care of themselves.

It is therefore the declared policy of this College to raise its entrance requirements and its standards in every branch until they are in complete accord with the very best recognized in modern legal education. Already the case system, now generally regarded as the most approved method of instruction in law, has been introduced in all courses; in addition to a complete high school education, the entering student must have to his credit one year of standard college work; beginning with 1925, two years of college work will be required of all entering students. New courses have been added to the curriculum; additional instructors have been added to the faculty; and the number of volumes in the law library has been more than doubled in the last two years. This is but the beginning of a sustained and determined effort to place this department of the University in the front ranks of law schools in America. The result cannot be accomplished in a day, nor in a year, but the fact is that the plans have been carefully laid and step by step they are being worked out as rapidly as it is possible to do.

—MALCOLM McDERMOTT.

The College of Law of the University of Tennessee has for its ambition the establishment here of a law school equipped to give its students a training second to none in America. For years it has been customary for those interested in the highest professional education to turn their eyes to the East and to the North. It is inconceivable that these or any other sections of the country can have a monopoly on any branch of education.

IN THE CLASS ROOM

JAMES TEMPLE PORTER, DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

The College of Liberal Arts

THE RETREAT OF L. A. STUDENTS

The College of Liberal Arts, as its name signifies, is that part of the University which presents, or should present, to its students an opportunity to become acquainted with all the various forms of intellectual activity. This it does through its departments of Languages, ancient and modern, Literature, History, Mathematics, Philosophy and Natural Science. It makes no effort to encompass all knowledge; but it takes the student, as it were to the mountain top and points out all the brilliant accomplishments of the generations that have gone before, and indicates the paths of progress that lead to intellectual achievement. It does more than this. It provides the mental equipment which is absolutely necessary to progress; a knowledge of fundamental facts, the power to think a problem through to a conclusion and the facility of expression.

Training in language, the medium by which the activity of one mind is communicated to another, and in Mathematics, the language of science, always will constitute the back-bone of any Liberal Arts curriculum. These are facts not of our making. Therefore they will endure whatever may be the vicissitudes of fortune.

One needs only to read the elegant and exact English written by men trained in the English classical schools to appreciate the power which facility in the use of language gives and the satisfaction which comes in following mental process expressed with precision.

Mathematics is not excelled, if equalled, by any other subject in its power to compel exact and orderly thinking. That is why it is hard. That is why the young, disorderly mind seeks to avoid it. (With humble apologies to all freshmen who do not like the subject). Many a man has mastered a distasteful subject with great profit.

This year the College of Liberal Arts went into its new home, Ayres Hall, which has been pronounced by those who know one of the most handsome college buildings in the United States. It was the idea of Thomas Jefferson that the buildings consecrated to the training of youth should be commensurate with the great end to be attained. Ayres Hall meets this requirement. It is, therefore, with a feeling of great pride and profound responsibility that we take possession of it, hoping that faculty and students working together may lay deeply and solidly the foundation for future great intellectual achievement.

CHARLES ALBERT WILLSON
VICE-DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The College of Agriculture

FROM ACROSS THE RIVER

deavor. Yearly large numbers of young men were going out from our Agricultural Colleges back to the farms to become the messengers of scientific agriculture and to assume intelligent leadership in all the affairs of country life; but for years there was felt a growing need of workers in the field, that even the people in the remotest places might have brought to them the latest and best agricultural investigation in all its phases. In 1914 there was enacted a bill known as the Smith-Lever Act which provided for an extension department which would connect the work on the farms with our state colleges and experiment stations.

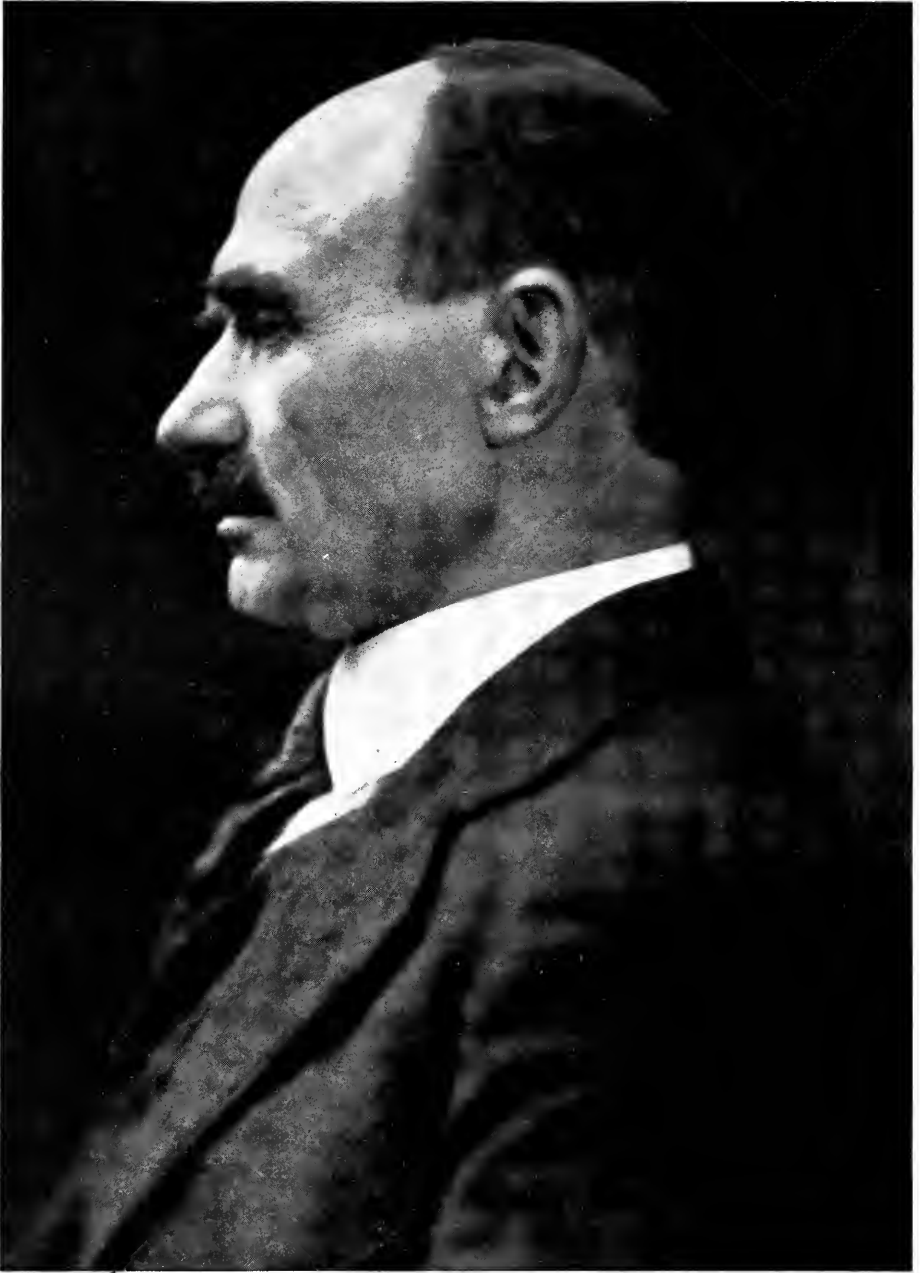

Our own College of Agriculture consists of these three divisions, the Experiment Station, the Division of Extension and the Division of Instruction, each separate and distinct, yet dependent and cooperative. The Experiment Station with its proficient scientists is earnestly investigating important problems pertaining to the agricultural development of the State, and in consequence determining better methods of agriculture and saving the farmers of the state thousands of dollars. The Division of Extension, through its County Agents in the field and its efficient corps of specialists in the office at the University, is helping to solve the farmers' daily problems, to unite disorganized units and bring about rural cooperation and better country life. To the young men who enter the College of Agriculture, instruction is given in the general sciences,—botany, zoology, entomology, chemistry, geology, physics, bacteriology, mathematics, history, economics and the languages along with the students of other colleges; for purely agricultural subjects—agronomy, animal husbandry, dairying, horticulture and agricultural education—well equipped classrooms and laboratories are maintained in Morgan Hall at the University Farm. The courses offered give liberal culture interpreted in terms of country life. The well trained men on the faculty are the peers of men of any similar institution. No better equipped young men go out from any Agricultural College. Yearly there go out from the College of Agriculture of the University of Tennessee young men to the farms to put into practice the knowledge gained and to become community leaders, to schools and colleges as teachers of different phases of agriculture, to community centers as extension workers in various lines, in the field of research as scientific investigators, and to other positions too numerous to mention.

CHARLES EDWARD FERRIS
DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering

MACHINE SHOP

Tennessee needs Captains of Industry. We talk much of our undeveloped resources; of our water power possibilities; of our virgin forests of fine timber; of our rich mines of iron, copper, zinc and coal; of our fertile soil and excellent climate; of King Cotton and King Corn.

We are too easily satisfied. We are content to ship our cotton in bales to England and New England, there to receive the touch of skilled hands that will enhance its value many fold.

Our raw materials, prepared for market by unskilled labor, are the source of wealth of industrial centers; our timber is converted into beautiful furniture in Grand Rapids. When we furnish our homes we pay freight both ways on our own timber and support a city of beautiful homes in another state, peopled by skilled workmen. We own in Tennessee a hundred million dollars worth of automobiles which we did not build.

We need leaders of Industry in the South; men properly trained in the sciences, in their application to the practical problems of life, men who will convert the materials and forces of nature to the use and comfort and convenience of mankind.

This is the law: no modern community can grow wealthy and support the culture that is based on wealth, dependent wholly on the products of unskilled labor and on the products of the soil. The time must come in the history of every state when it can no longer depend on the bounties of nature; when it must educate its people in the sciences and train them in manufacturing and industries, or it will go down. Scientific education is the forerunner of higher prosperity, and the state which fails to develop the intellectual faculty for production must degenerate, for it cannot stand still.

We need skilled workmen in Tennessee. The old time apprentice system is gone, but it would be out of date in this age of rapid movement. A community of skilled workmen cannot be moved. They must be trained and it is the problem of the trade school to supply this need; the school equipped to turn out men whose skilled hands are guided by trained intellects.

The College of Engineering has a three fold task. Its first work is to train leaders of industry, men who can fill positions of responsibility in the factories, in transportation, in teaching the sciences and their application to modern life. The College of Engineering must be the State's laboratory for research, where the resources of the state may be studied and understood, where waste may be eliminated, where new processes may be discovered that will add to human progress. The College of Engineering needs to reach beyond the campus to teach the masses of workmen the theory back of their trades, that they may become skilled workmen.

DRAWING ROOM

MAURICE MULVANIA
DEAN OF THE PRELIMINARY MEDICAL DEPARTMENT

Preliminary Medical Department

CHEMISTRY LABORATORY

The credulity of man has apparently been preyed upon since the time of his emergence from whatever his former state may have been and no where has the predatory habit been more highly developed nor more glaringly exercised than in the healing art. As with all forms of living things man has been ever struggling to adjust more perfectly to his physical environment and has encountered along the way many vicissitudes which checked his progress and deducted from his success. Depletion of his own physical vigor has been a large factor in preventing the attainment of the high degree of rapport toward which we are ever striving.

In our effort to correct physical derangement recourse has been had to every agent conceivable, both within and without, and the disposition to invoke the aid of our own fellows has been the chief stimulus to the origin and development of what we now term the medical profession.

The obscurity of many ills and the meagerness of knowledge on the part of those who presumed to alleviate them necessarily encouraged much assumption and fraud. The results of practices were equally indefinite leading at times to the acceptance of the worse and condemnation of the better purpose. This stimulated the activities of charlatans and resulted in many fatal errors. In turn a feeling developed that individuals could not wisely select in the matter of honesty and capability of medical dispensers and legislative control was extended in the form of permits or licences. These licences were granted on the basis of examinations and did much to raise the standard of practices in general. However, legislation did not, and perhaps could not, render full protection from deception and it soon became evident to the medical profession as such that regulation must come from within.

In response to this recognized necessity the American Medical Association has established and maintains practical control of the standards of preparation and fitness of all recruits entering its precincts. This control is effective over virtually the entire American continent; certainly over the United States and Canada.

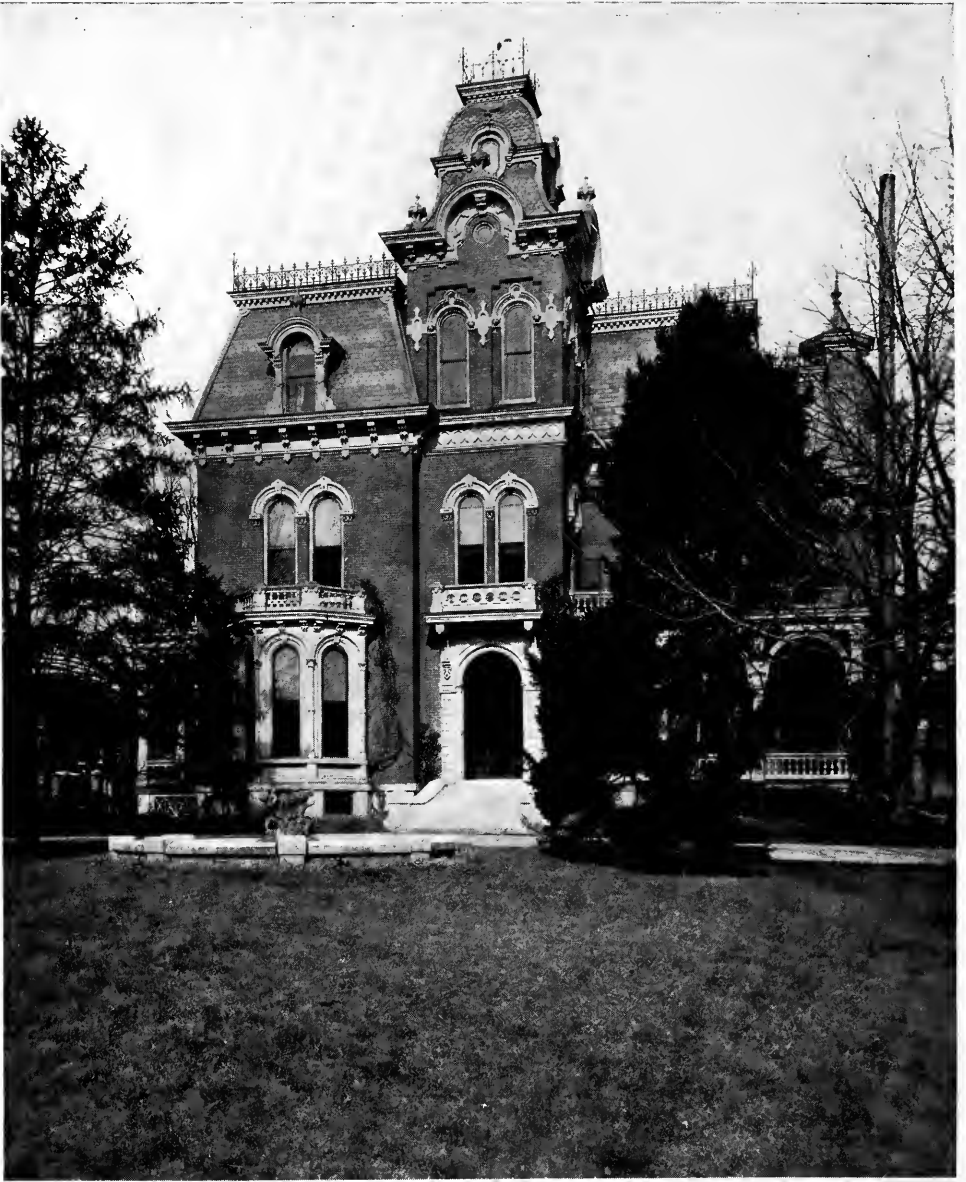

As a preliminary step toward the end desired the association raised the educational requirements by the addition of two years of college work before entrance upon the study of medicine proper. Certainly this was a forward, if somewhat daring, move on the part of the American Medical Association but developments have shown that it was neither untimely nor ill advised.

In response to the above requirement many of the colleges throughout the country have erected courses especially suited to the needs of the prospective medical student and have generally created schools or departments designated as pre-medical.

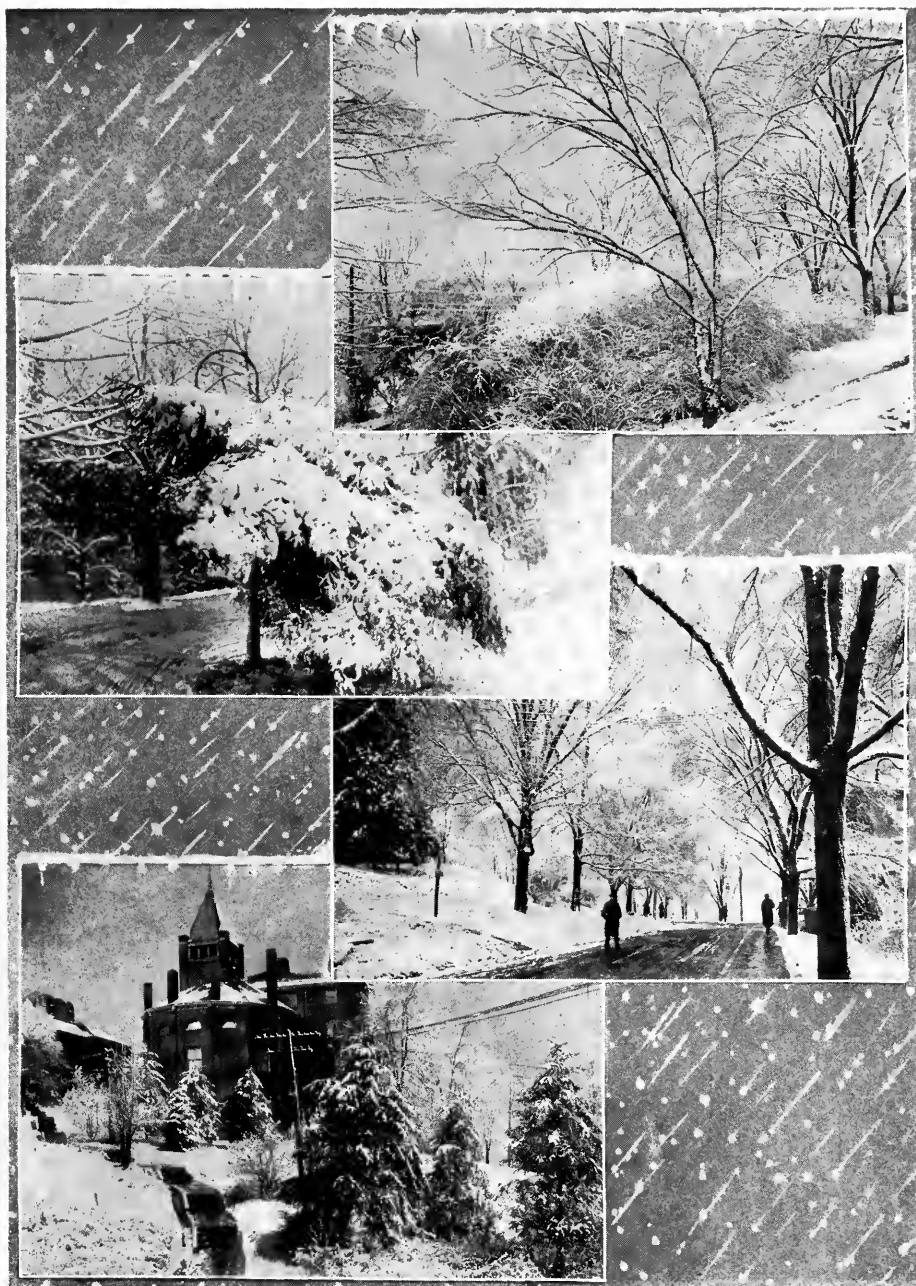

The University of Tennessee immediately entered into the spirit of the movement and has for some years complied with every recommendation of the American Medical Association. In point of fact we are extending our activities much beyond the minimum of the association's requirement and encouraging in every way the highest attainment possible for the time the student spends with us in preparation for his work at the medical college. In this connection it has been made possible for our students to combine studies in such a way as to enable them to complete a college degree at the same time they are taking their medical training and thus securing both the B. S. and M. D. in the six years which are necessary for their full preparation for medical practice.

We are in sympathy with everything that promises greater skill in safeguarding general physical welfare.

As We Say Farewell

Just a moment while the Recording Angel adjusts the film of the 1922's history.

Four years of reaching towards the heights, four years of struggle fought and won and four years of getting by. We have come to the last lap of a race well run, we have laughed and drudged together. What we have achieved during those days while we emerged from our verdant cocoon stage into the radiant chrysalis of our cap and gown dignity only the faculty knows.

There have been others before us who aspired to reservations among the seats of the mighty. There may be still more whose trail of glory will blaze far brighter than ours.

But the things we have done and the things we have left unfinished are not what we count the most as we stand at the larger gateway. The memories of the Hill, the thought that we have helped to carry on the U. T. traditions, that we too have been faithful followers of the Orange and White banner—All these we hold to be worth while and so we go forth thankful that—“Life has given us the chance to train and serve within the fold,

To meet the test and be prepared for all the endless years may hold.”

Freshman Class

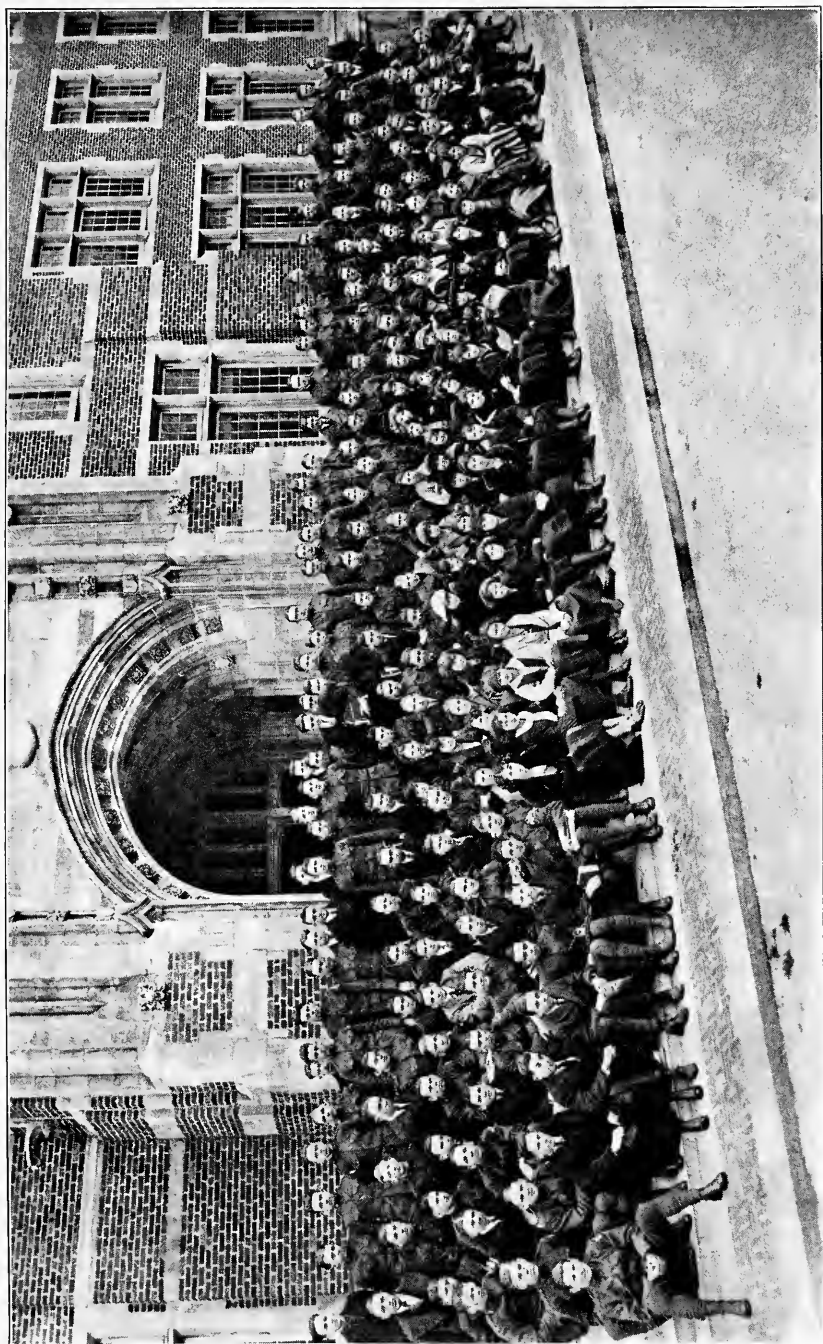

EARL KEISTER - - - - - Chairman

LARGE CLASS

The class entering the University in September, 1921, was the largest lot of Freshmen ever assembled at one time on the historic campus. Gathered from all parts of Tennessee, it is truly representative of the young men and women of the state.

Not only is the class large, but it embraces students of energy and ability. Many of its representatives are numbered in student activities of all descriptions—athletics, publications, literary work, and what not.

The members of the class displayed their spirit in the field meet against the sophomores by winning laurels for '25. Wherever one turns, a freshman is at hand, engaged in some constructive work for the betterment of the institution. May the class of '25 remain intact, and graduate the largest number of seniors yet known at Tennessee.

Infantry Company

Company A, composed of all men taking the infantry course, has maintained a consistently good record throughout both terms. Under the system of competitive rating which was adopted last fall, this company was ranked a close second during that semester. Since the beginning of the second term A Company has taken the lead and has shown a distinct improvement over its accomplishments of the preceding term. In the first annual Gymkana of the battalion, held on March 17th, the infantry company was defeated by the slender margin of one point by B Company in a close race for second place.

A large number of Tennessee men attended the infantry camp at Camp Knox last summer and an equally large representation will go to camp this summer. The 1922 camp is to be held at Camp Benning, near Columbus, Georgia.

Captains Richie and Parker have had charge of the infantry classes and have assisted Cadet Captain K. H. Rueter in drilling his men.

Motor Transport Company

The Motor Transport company started the year with a higher percentage of advanced men than either of the other companies. The Junior class, practically every member of which attended Camp Holabird, Maryland, last summer, set a noticeable record by having no member absent during the whole of the first term. In spite of the high number of advanced men, however, the company was able to get only third place in the competitive rating of the fall term. This was probably due to the fact that their work is concerned more with practical work on motors than with drill.

The first platoon of B Company has been awarded the honor of having the best line at practically every parade of the last year.

The Motor Transport classes have been in charge of Captain Stromeyer and first class Private Marshall. R. J. Wilmot was Cadet Captain.

Engineer Company

To the engineer company must be given the honor of making the best record in the military department for the year. C company had the greatest number of men enrolled, approximately 130. Under the leadership of Cadet Captain Officer these men soon developed into the best drilled detachment on the hill. They won the competitive rating for the fall semester and likewise finished an easy winner in the Gymkana. These engineers have shown more energy and pride in their organization than either of the other companies and their success may be attributed to this spirit.

C company also had an unusual number of advanced men, most of whom had received practical instruction at the engineer camp at Camp Humphrey, Va., last summer.

Lieuts. Locke and Gorlinski were the regular commissioned officers in charge of the company. A. F. Officer was the Cadet Captain.

Development of the Reserve Officers Training Corps

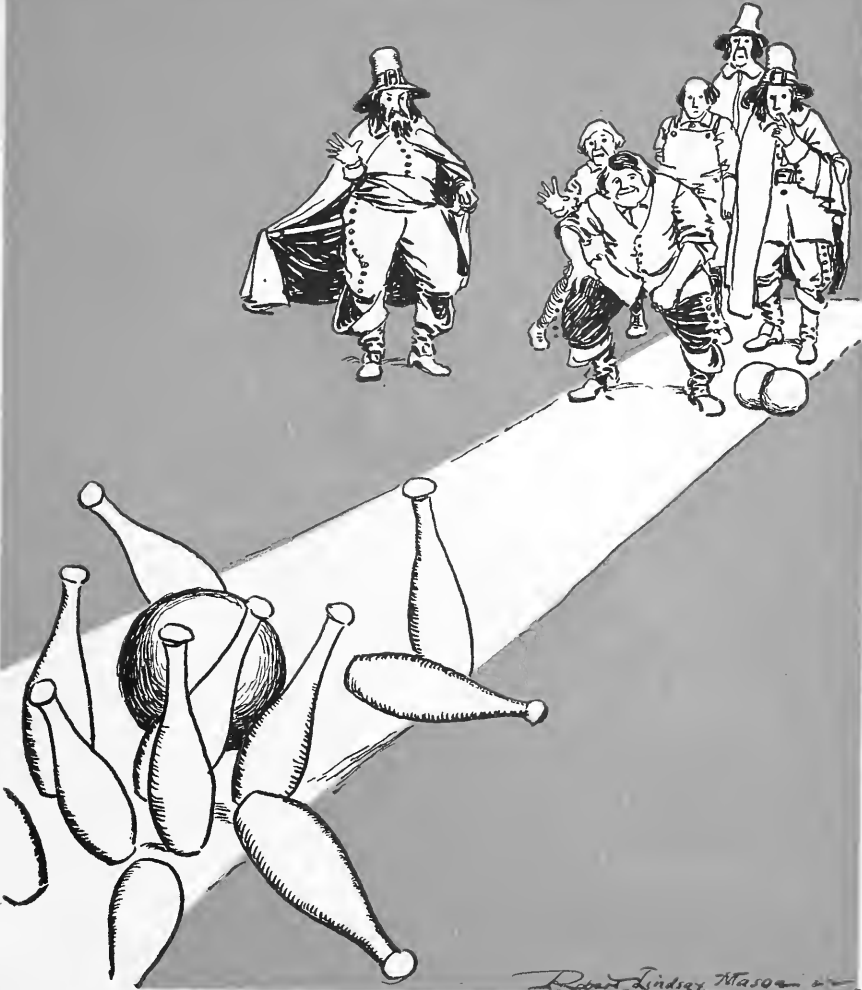

The development of the Reserve Officers Training Corps this year has extended beyond the plans drawn during the preceding year. Notwithstanding the many additions to the army staff for instructional purposes to increase facilities for class work and demonstrations, the units here are but following out a system which is being developed with great rapidity and efficiency thruout all Colleges having Military instruction as part of its course. The defence legislation enacted in 1920 combined with that which provided for the Reserve Officers Training Corps in 1916 have taken on a tangible form and even at the present time the tremendous military value of the policies now in force may be observed. It is difficult for one not familiar with the present regulations governing the instruction in Military matters to comprehend the nature of Military work beyond that of the old system of an hour a day for drill. The old system required no special schedule to be followed and schools having a course in Military training followed more or less the general principles of Military drill and formations and were inspected each year by a representative of the War Department and as a means of encouragement were given a comparative rating. The entire control of and regulations for the Military at that time were vested in the institutions concerned. The Reserve Officers Training Corps system having developed in the last year to a point probably beyond the fondest ambitions of those who made possible its provision will bear a brief explanation. Also, its connection with the other activities of the Army should be known. The present Military course consists of four distinct years of work, all of which is progressive. Work which is given to certain classes must be completed and then they must take up the next work in order. These courses are all prescribed by War Department regulations in detail and nothing is left to the discretion of the Officers on duty at the University except to meet the requirement that the schedule outlined be fitted in as nearly as possible with the facilities of the University. In establishing the Reserve Officers Training Corps system the acceptance of Units by any institution is optional. If such units are accepted, however, the University must agree to require certain provisions in connection with the training and an obligation is placed on the War Department to assist the University in the development of the R. O. T. C. in every way possible. When a student completes the prescribed four year course he is eligible for a Commission in the Reserve, not automatically but must be so recommended by the authorities. In developing the system great stress has been laid upon the numbers enrolled in the Advanced Courses. This however has exceeded all expectations of the War Department and the number of men in training this year far exceeds that of the preceeding year; as the numbers taking the Advanced course have nearly trebled, indications are now that certain additional requirements will soon be placed on the Advanced course as well as the requirements for Reserve commission following graduation. The entire system is so much larger than any one can well imagine unless all memories of the previous system are obliterated. The Army of the United States at the present time consists of three components: the Regular Army, the National Guard, and Organized Reserve. National guard is referred to here as coming under the Federal Government in times of emergency without any of the complex legislation heretofore required and by reason of this fact a dual oath is required at the time any one is admitted to it. The last component, the Reserve, might well be termed our "Inactive Army." The War Department has stationed experienced and efficient Officers at various central points in each locality in order to organize this system on the frame work provided by Congress. It follows to a certain extent the Swiss organization altho it varies in detail. It provides that certain men having the required training be designated as Officers in this Reserve organization. Other men having lesser qualifications or knowledge are registered as Non-commissioned Officers of the organization. Younger men and men without any training may be registered as privates. All are subject to advancement by means of examinations and training. As an example, the Headquarters of the 81st Reserve Division is located in Knoxville. A perusal of the records of that Headquarters would indicate the complete organization of a War Strength Division (excepting the men in ranks) on paper. Appointments, discharges, and promotions take place in these Reserve organizations just as the inactive Army so that it may be called out as a combatant Unit at any time a national peril confronts us. The R. O. T. C. is an integral part of the Reserve system and will be the chief source of supply for Officers as the eligible lists of those having more training becomes depleted. It is possible for a student to obtain a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Reserve upon graduation from his institution. He will be assigned to a designated organization and will there be in line for promotion in accordance with regulations governing the administration of the Reserve forces. The development of both the R. O. T. C. in schools and the Reserve has progressed to such a point that the success of the system seems assured. Looking ahead a few years it seems possible to foresee our troops in some future emergency being led by Reserve Officers who are College graduates, trained and instructed in the requirements of Military organizations by Officers in R. O. T. C. work at the various institutions in the country. The whole system is connected up in such a way that no one fails to benefit from the instruction in any one of the Army groups; and above all it provides that the leaders of our troops be educated and trained for that purpose, and promotions take place in these Reserve organizations just as in the active Army. Very probably the strong centralized control of the present organization for Military instruction in Universities and Colleges will bring about a better understanding between Universities in various parts of the country and provide new fields for competition. In fact this latter has already occurred in the development of rifle firing and a large number of gallery rifle matches have been fired by opposing R. O. T. C. teams during the year. The Summer Camps conducted by the War Department should prove to be great educators. They bring in contact with each other, students representing many institutions distributed over a large area. The Summer Camp provides a medium for interscholastic sports heretofore unknown and it seems reasonable to suppose that an increasing number of competitions of various sorts will develop with this system.

FOOTBALL

Resume of 1921 Football Season

By M. B. Banks, Head Coach

I have been asked to write something of the last football campaign and to add a few prophetic words relative to the approaching season. It is needless to say that such a task is a difficult one particularly for the Coach who, undoubtedly, has a different viewpoint from the Faculty, the Student and the University friends in general. These different elements of University life measure the success of a season of football from entirely different angles. However, be that as it may, I shall attempt to describe the season of 1921 as it appealed to me. At its conclusion I was neither satisfied nor unduly disappointed. In spots the season was poor, good, brilliant and terrible. A composite of the adjectives would probably describe the University of Tennessee Football season as fair.

Those of you who are interested enough in Tennessee Football to read this article know that 1921 was the first year the writer had charge of Football on the Hill. I came to Knoxville on the 4th of September and the first official practice was held on the 10th with the first game on September 24th with Emory-Henry as opponents. The first persons with whom I came in contact after arrival were Hal Blair, Captain of the team and Coach A. W. Hobt, of Ohio State University, who was to be assistant coach. The latter also was new to Tennessee football.

It takes several days for a football squad to gather, get equipped and settle down to the old grind of routine practice and systematic workouts. However, after the entire personnel of the squad had arrived Coach Hobt and myself found that we had about a dozen letter men from 1920, a like number of so-called scrubs from the previous season and nearly fifteen freshmen who were ambitious to make the 1921 varsity. Taken as a whole it was splendid material. The letter men included Capt. Blair, Roe Campbell, Lane, Janes, Sloan, Streigle, Smith, Deitzen, Holt, Nicholson, Evans, Lindsay, Lowe and Vowell. The scrubs included Sneed, Morris, Hurley, Stephenson, White, McDowell, and R. Vowell while the freshmen aspirants were Register, Grizzard, Higgs, Jackson, Nehf, Keister, Greer, J. G. Lowe, Kefauver, Cureton, Cummings and Kelly. C. Cummings of '19 was also a candidate. We had lost thru graduation and otherwise, Hatcher, tackle; Doak, tackle; Robinson, guard; Vic Campbell, Wilson, Overby and Phillips, backs.

After two weeks of hard intensive training and practice under a burning Tennessee sun the team lined up against the Emory-Henry Wasps for its first trial. The game was won 27 to 0 but the work of Tennessee was not impressive. The team work was ragged, the defense, especially in the line was poor and the offense was slow. The game was played on the new Shields-Watkins Stadium field, the first ever played on this splendid field.

The following week saw the squad down to real hard work again in an effort to iron out the rough, ragged spots in the team. The next game on October 1st was to be with our neighbors from Maryville and already we had reports of their great strength. However, in spite of hard scrimmage, shifting, sorting and changing of the personnel of the team during the week, its performance against Maryville was disheartening. There was no apparent cohesion, snap or drive in it. On the other hand Maryville played a splendid game teamed better and fought harder than Tennessee. The game was played on a field ankle deep in mud which fact tends to equalize two teams and while Tennessee won 7 to 0 on Clayton's dash around the end for twenty yards and a touchdown, it must be admitted that the team was far from the form it must attain if any creditable achievement were to be recorded later.

After this game nine days were left for practice before the game with Dartmouth at Hanover, one of the strongest of the Eastern teams. In the meantime Tennessee had to play the University of Chattanooga on October 8th in the Shields-Watkins Stadium. We coaches had plenty to occupy our thoughts during these days. The team had to be revamped everywhere. There were leaks in the line, leaks on the ends, overhead defense was pitiful and the offense was not timing its plays right. So a very busy practice week was in store for the boys. They had it and I believe still remember it. The squad worked day and night that week. We coaches relentless and grouchy found fault with everything and everybody. At any rate the team showed some improvement against Chattanooga. The running attack was still weak, the line not charging fast enough but the passing game both offense and defense was good. The game was won 21 to 0. Chattanooga had a strong team also and played snappy football.

BLAIR CIRCLING END IN A. & M. GAME

Following three days of hard scrimmage and defensive work the team twenty strong entrained for Hanover to play Dartmouth. The boys had worked hard up to this point in the season with an unusual amount of discouragement to fight. Joe Evans hurt his shoulder putting him out for the year and he was playing a good game. Jimmy Bradford left College and Stephenson broke his arm. Janes hurt his knee and broke his nose. C. Cummings also at this time hurt his shoulder and was out for weeks. Big Greer wrenched his knee and he was done for the season. Bradford and Stephenson were first and second string centers and the team started to Dartmouth with Grizzard and Higgs, freshmen, as centers. Dartmouth won 14 to 3 but I must confess a pardonable pride in what the team displayed that day, Oct. 15th. After weeks of hard work and discouragement the boys came thru wonderfully and played splendid defensive football. Fumbles cost us touchdowns but in the second half the play was entirely in Dartmouth territory. The game was a moral victory if nothing more. They had found themselves in a sense, discovered what determination and fight would bring.

October 22nd found the team back in Shields-Watkins Stadium playing the University of Florida. The Alligators had the best team in their history but Tennessee defeating them that day 9 to 0, the only defeat they suffered all season. However, Tennessee did not play any too impressively against Florida. They still lacked that drive that is so necessary.

Vandy came next on the schedule at Nashville. It is difficult to account for this game. Vanderbilt had a great team, one of the very best in the South but so did Tennessee. It is the one team that Tennessee enjoys defeating. The team was pointed for this game for weeks and equipped with new plays and incessantly drilled to meet Vandy offense. Suffice it to say that Tennessee suffered defeat 14 to 0. I shall leave it to others to define the Tennessee team that day. At any rate it did not play up to its capabilities and Vandy did.

Following this crushing blow the team journeyed to Memphis to meet the Mississippi Ags, a strong team which had never been defeated by Tennessee. It was a wonderful battle with Tennessee having the edge for three quarters. About the middle of the last quarter Mississippi scored and kicked goal. In another three minutes Mississippi had the ball on Tennessee's two yard line with two downs to go. Can you picture in your mind the desperate situation with only five minutes of the game remaining? Tennessee won that game 14 to 7. That tells the story of the gamest team that I ever had the honor to coach. They determined to win and therefore could not lose regardless of the odds.

Sewanee came to Knoxville the following Saturday, November 12th with its great team, undefeated and unscored upon. Supporters of Tennessee were fearful of the result. They did not realize that the team was at its crest, that it had finally arrived at a point where all its elements were functioning properly. Defensively and offensively it was "right". Sewanee had a strong team but could not hope to defeat Tennessee that day. The score was 21 to 0.

The last game was with the University of Kentucky, played at Lexington, Ky., Thanksgiving, on a rainy day and muddy field. It left much to be desired by both teams. Kentucky had a nice team and played good football. Both teams played well but fumbles of the greasy ball marred the game and neither side scored.

Thus passed into history the football season of the 1921 Tennessee team. It was brilliant in some games and correspondingly dull in others. Against Miss. A. & M., Dartmouth and Sewanee the team played up to form but against Maryville, Florida, Vandy and Kentucky it was clearly off. It is interesting to note that on the days these latter four teams were met the playing fields were muddy and wet. Could there be any connection?

As to Tennessee players Campbell stood out offensively by his spectacular dashes around the end, forward passing, drop-kick against Dartmouth and interfering. His run against Miss. A. & M. was a wonder. Jimmy Smith ran the team well, blocked well and was a big factor in the Miss. A. & M. triumph, his run of twenty yards for the second touchdown being well timed and executed. Hal Blair was blocking nicely all season and his line plunging was excellent but the line never attained the proper timing for him except possibly in the Sewanee game. Hal was a splendid leader and Captain. Hunter Lane played a fine end, was fast down on kicks, a clever receiver of passes and a good tackler. Grizzard proved a wonderful little center. He stepped into the breach at Dartmouth and played one of the greatest games I have ever seen by a center of his weight. Thru the balance of the season his play was remarkable. Vowell played a great game at End and Tackle. No better end ever stepped on a Southern gridiron. Holt was used both at end and in the backfield where his fight and hard playing was always in evidence. Lindsay played a splendid game all season and I shall never forget his gameness in the Miss. A. & M. game. Streigle and Ira Sloan played fine games at guard. Streigle was one of the hardest workers on the team. Deitzen was a tower of strength in the Miss. A. & M. game and also Sewanee game where he played a fine game rounding the backfield out splendidly. However, he left college the following week and was missed in the final game. Register played a strong game at right tackle all season. C. Cummings, Hurley, Andy Lowe, Morris, J. G. Lowe and others played the game well and hard when called upon.

The slowness of the development of the 1921 team doubtless is somewhat due to the change in coaching methods. The men were new to the coaches and the coaches were new to the players. A shift was introduced which took a great deal of time and practice to perfect. The coaches had never worked together before. The playing field was new and consequently slow owing to lack of sod. These factors will not prevail during the 1922 season.

Regarding the approaching season of 1922, Tennessee has splendid prospects for a great team. However, a team may look fine on paper in March but take an entirely different hue in the fall. The team loses Vowell, Lindsay, Stephenson, Register, Sloan, Janes, Blair, Deitzen, Andy Lowe and Nicholson. Freshmen are not eligible next fall but the following old men should be available; Clayton, who showed so well in early games last year and then was declared ineligible; Smith, quarter; Wilson, half; Campbell, fullback; Nehf, back; Sneed, back; Phillips, back; Keister, quarter; Jackson, back; Cummings, back; Holt, back; Capt. Streigle, Key, J. G. Lowe, Grizzard, Kelly, Morris, Cureton, Keifer, Cloyd, Blair, Birdsong, Sharp, Gilliland, Hurley, Higgs and Greer, linemen; Lane, C. Cummings, Evans, Kennedy, Duncan, Hatcher and McClain, ends.

The same coaching staff will have charge with the addition of a line coach. The schedule is a splendid one taken from all angles. It is truly representative and includes Vanderbilt, Kentucky and University of Mississippi at Knoxville. Away from home Georgia, Mississippi A. & M., Camp Benning and Sewanee will be played. Emory-Henry, Carson-Newman and Maryville will be the three home opponents starting the season.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast." That is true in full measure with a college coach. I cannot seem to down a very optimistic feeling regarding 1922. There is no outstanding reason for such a feeling either but it is there. A combination of factors which surely shape a football campaign are working. I feel a better spirit on the hill. Football men are having spring practice and are working hard in class in order to be eligible next fall. Students are taking a wonderful interest in the athletic teams. Alumni and Knoxville adherents are enthused. Memories of the stand against Dartmouth last fall, the stirring comeback in Memphis with Miss. A. & M. and the team play in the Sewanee game will be a contributing factor next fall. What the Basketball team did to Vandy and Ga. Tech. has taught the boys a lesson.

Student support and student spirit will mould the 1922 Tennessee team. Student spirit made Center College football. Why should it not be developed at Tennessee? It is here but it is not properly featured and brought to the surface. It is college spirit that makes football men train and incidentally winning football teams.

ANNUAL RAMBO BANQUET FOR FOOTBALL MEN

Prospectus 1922

When Prof. N. W. Dougherty and Coach M. B. Banks, Tennessee schedule constructors, arranged a contest with the University of Georgia at Athens, Georgia for next fall, they gave to Tennessee the stiffest schedule that the University has ever faced and one that will compare favorably with any Southern Intercollegiate Conference. Of the ten scheduled games, six are with schools of Conference rank. The season opens September 23 with games following on each week-end until the Saturday before Thanksgiving. There is no mid-season open date and not a single "set-up" in the ten games. With the Freshman rule in effect, no new material will be available. The fiercest kind of determination will be necessary to bring about a successful season.

Emory and Henry, the school that last year furnished opposition for our initial game, will again open the season. They have the date of September 23 at Knoxville. This school was an ideal opponent for the first game last fall. Playing hard, clean football and using a line shift, Tennessee was held to a 28 to 0 victory.

On the following Saturday, September 30, Carson and Newman will be played at Knoxville. Students at this school are predicting a more than representative team for the coming year.

The first Saturday in October sees Maryville College performing on Shields-Watkins field. It will be remembered that Maryville played a very excellent game here the past season and held the Volunteers to a 7 to 0 victory. Reports are current that the prospects for next year are even brighter than they were last fall for this school.

A road trip to Columbus, Georgia follows. Camp Benning, a new comer on the Tennessee schedule, is the opponent. Known as the West Point of the south, it is safe to say that the fiercest kind of football will be necessary to bring victory to the Vols. This is the first "away from home" game. It should prepare varsity for the many fierce struggles in S. I. C. competition that follow.

Then the University of Georgia at Athens, Georgia. It is the second successive Saturday away from home. Georgia was conservatively rated as the third strongest team in the South for the season of 1921. The same rating placed Tennessee in fifth position.—When Greek meets Greek.

Mississippi University (Old Miss.) will show its wares on Shields-Watkins field October 28. In this school we have another newcomer on the Fighting Volunteer schedule. In spite of its small student body, Old Miss has always played representative football and is given good ranking in southern circles.

And then—VANDY, the rival, in our own cow pasture. Nothing need be said about the past record of Vanderbilt. Situated in our native state and with approximately equal student bodies, we have a worthy rival for state supremacy at clean, hard football.

Continuing in this rather dizzy atmosphere of football heights, we journey to Memphis November 4 for our annual struggle in that city with Mississippi A. and M. College.

Sewanee University at Chattanooga November 18. Such an announcement brings memories of many hard fought battles in the past. With an excellent team last fall, we have received warnings for the 1922 campaign.

A breathing spell—the Saturday before Thanksgiving is the only open date on the University menu.

Thanksgiving. Kentucky State, the Wild Cats. And wild enough the season past to hold us to a tie score. This "little" game will be played at Knoxville.

With the schedule presenting such a menacing front, the Vols will have to develop all available material to its greatest ability to stand up under the strain. It is for this reason that spring football practice has been ordered. Should Tennessee come thru with a successful season, she will place herself as a leader in Southern football circles.

The complete schedule follows:

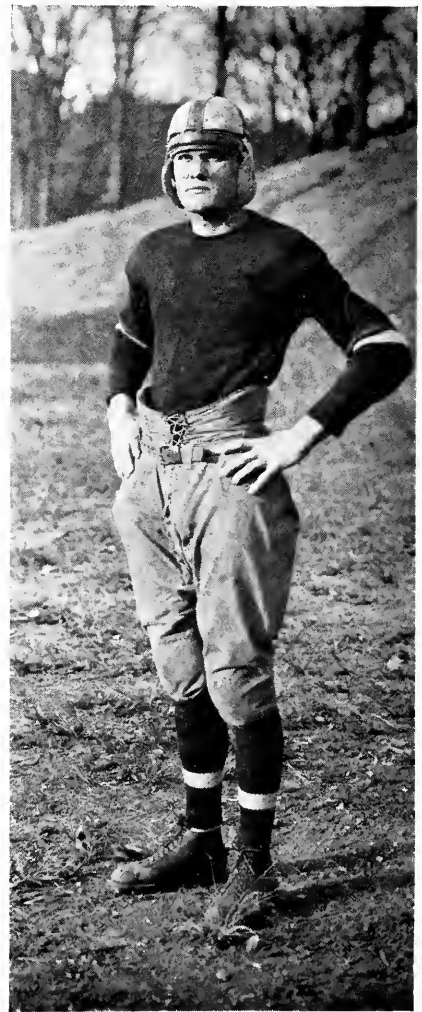

Sept. 23—Emory and Henry.....	Knoxville
Sept. 30—Carson and Newman.....	Knoxville
Oct. 7—Maryville College	Knoxville
Oct. 14—Camp Benning	Columbus, Ga.
Oct. 21—University of Georgia	Athens, Ga.
Oct. 28—Mississippi University	Knoxville
Nov. 4—Vanderbilt University	Knoxville
Nov. 11—Mississippi A. and M. College.....	Memphis, Tenn.
Nov. 18—Sewanee University	Chattanooga
Nov. 25—Open.....
Nov. 30—Kentucky State.....	Knoxville

HAL BLAIR

Captain and Halfback

After playing one year at the University of Alabama and two years here at U. T., Blair was selected to pilot Tennessee's machine through 1921. Hal proved himself a faithful leader and led our team through a most successful season. He was always master of himself and the situation, and he was always the same consistent and aggressive player. If Tennessee carried the ball within a few yards of her opponents and needed a man to put it over, then this lanky halfback was called upon to deliver the goods, which he usually did in fine form.

GRAHAM VOWELL

End

To the followers of football in the South and even in the North, Graham Vowell needs no introduction. Having won three T's during the years 1914, '15 '16, and also positions on the All-Southern of 1916 and Walter Camp's third All-American, what more can be said of his merit? This year Coach Banks shifted him from end to tackle and he proved a bulwark of strength, but in the Mississippi A. and M. and Sewanee games, he held down the flank position only as Vowell 1916 fame could do. Vowell has played his fourth and last year at Tennessee and perhaps no grid-iron warrior that has ever trod a U. T. field is better liked or has made for himself a warmer place in the hearts of the fans and students.

ROY STRIEGEL

Guard

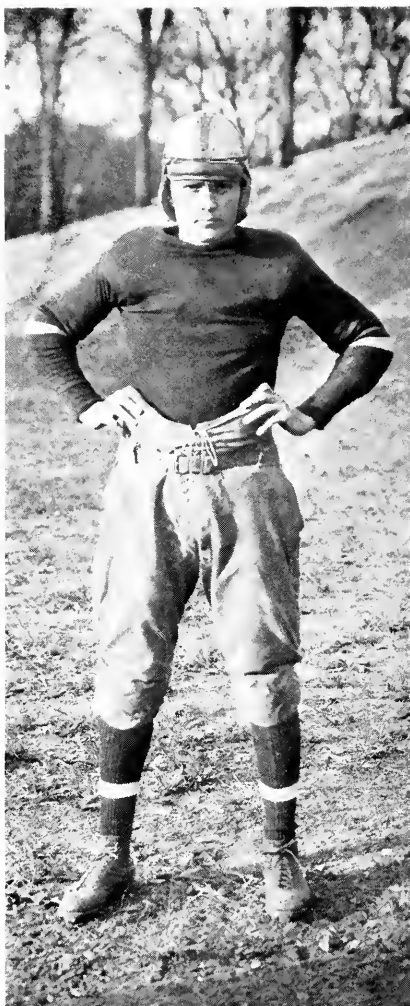

Roy could always be depended on to more than his share in every game. His work was such high quality that he was elected to be at the helm of the 1922 Vol. aggregation. We are sure that next year's team will be a fighting bunch, because Striegel is a fighter and will set a standard for his teammates to follow. To speak of his work in any one game, we would have to write up his record for the entire season, because his playing was above par in every game.

BOB CLEMENS

Halfback

Here is a "man of war" himself in the person of Bob Clemens, the undisputed ten second man of the Fighting Vols. Bob came to us from Maryville College where he starred for a number of seasons. In the Vanderbilt game, he displayed a brand of sidestepping and broken field running which equalled that of Rabbit Curry of 1916 fame. Bob has three more years of football before him and we are sure that he will be one of the first to appear on the Shields-Watkins Field next September.

IRA SLOAN

Guard

At the first of the season, it was seen that there was something wrong in the line. When Sloan made his appearance after a few days, the strength of the line was very much increased. He outclassed his opponent in almost every game this season. His hard work and excellent playing have earned him a place on three Tennessee elevens, and we regret that he will not be with us next year to win his fourth "T."

HUNTER LANE

End

"Dodo" has played his last game for us and Tennessee is losing one of the best ends that has ever trod her gridiron. His speed always enables him to nail the receiver in his tracks. Tennessee's strong overhead game was built around this man, because his specialty was snatching passes out of the air. His work in the Mississippi A. and M. contest will never be forgotten by the fans and his host of friends. They thought so much of this fellow at Vanderbilt, that they had to use two men to stop him.

ROBERT HOLT

Halfback and End

Holt played a steady and consistent game at all times, never quit until the final whistle blew. The first few games, Holt played in the backfield, where he did excellent work, but Coach Banks wanted a strong defensive team, so he shifted "Tarzan" to end, where he played stellar ball the remainder of the season. His "shoestring" tackles usually laid the opposing runner out. Here's hoping we will see him out in moleskins next year.

KENNETH GRIZZARD

Center

Having starred at T. M. I. for two years, Grizzard blew into Knoxville, in September to star at U. T. He was the smallest playing on any S. I. A. A. team but this did not handicap him in the least. In the Dartmouth, the "Big Green Eleven" put six different centers in to play against him, and he was master of each one of them. Grizzard was an outstanding star of the entire season. He was recommended by a great many critics for the mythical All-Southern, but on account of this being his first year of college football, he was not selected, but we expect to see his name on next year's selection.

ROE CAMPBELL

Fullback

Here is a player who possesses the "triple threat" and who has caused no little worry in our opponents camps. When Tennessee was playing the "Big Green Eleven", he kicked a difficult field goal from the thirty-five yard line, which gave us our only score. In the last quarter of the Mississippi A. and M. game with the score 7 to 0 in favor of Mississippi this fullback plunging and fighting like a demon caused Tennessee to garner two touchdowns in the last few minutes of play. Not only in the Mississippi and Dartmouth games, but in most of the games this season, he has starred.

JIMMIE SMITH

Quarterback

Jimmie's work at quarterback in directing the team was faultless. Although one of the smallest men on the team, he made up this deficiency in trainwork. It was in the Dartmouth game that Jimmie showed up to the best advantage. His broken field running in this game caused Eastern critics to speak highly of him. His offensive and defensive playing in the Chattanooga and Sewanee games could not have been beaten. Jimmie will be better than ever next year because of the experience of this season.

ANDY LOWE

Halfback

Andy is another one of the graduating class, and who will not don the moleskins next year. Andy is a hard hitter, a heady player and can pick his hole when the line opens it up. Not only did he play a stellar game this year, but back in 1916, when the unbeaten Tennessee eleven was taking every team by storm, this fellow was one of the stars of that memorable eleven.

CHARLIE CUMMINGS

End

Charlie played on the 1919 Volunteer eleven, but did not return to Tennessee until this year and he was a welcomed addition to the team. He was well based in the fundamentals of the game, when he made his appearance at the first of the season. He is a mean tackler, and can sift through the enemies interference with ease. His work in every game was highly commended upon by Tennessee boosters. He may be depended upon to be back next year.

ARCH REGISTER

Tackle

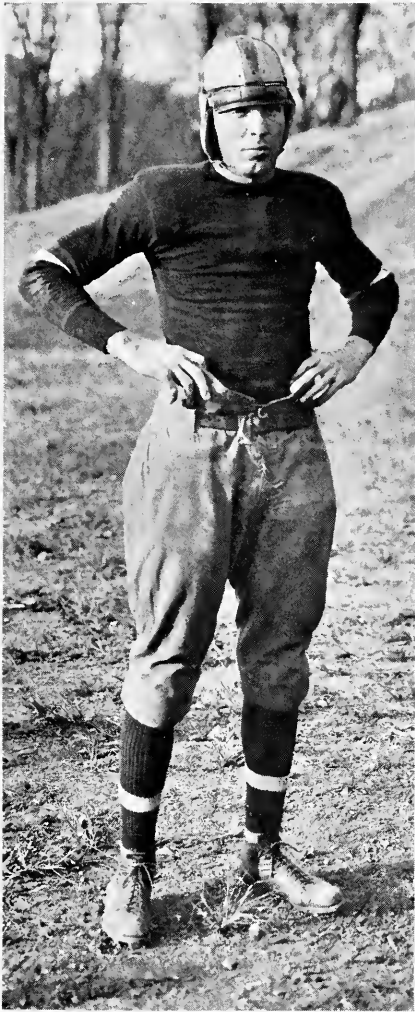

Tipping the scales at two hundred and fifty pounds gave Arch the undisputed right to be called the biggest man on the Vol aggregation. His weight was a great advantage to him, and he opened holes in the line large enough for two men to go through. Arch was not only a good offensive player, but also showed the fans that he was an excellent defensive man, by tackling the runner behind the line on many occasions.

"JAKE" NICHOLSON

End

"Jake" has been a hard worker during the entire season, and has displayed a great brand of football. His flank was always guarded well, and also was used to great advantage in offensive work. He is very fast, and he took advantage of his speed in the Dartmouth game, nailing the quarterback four times in his tracks. His work in other games was commented upon very highly.

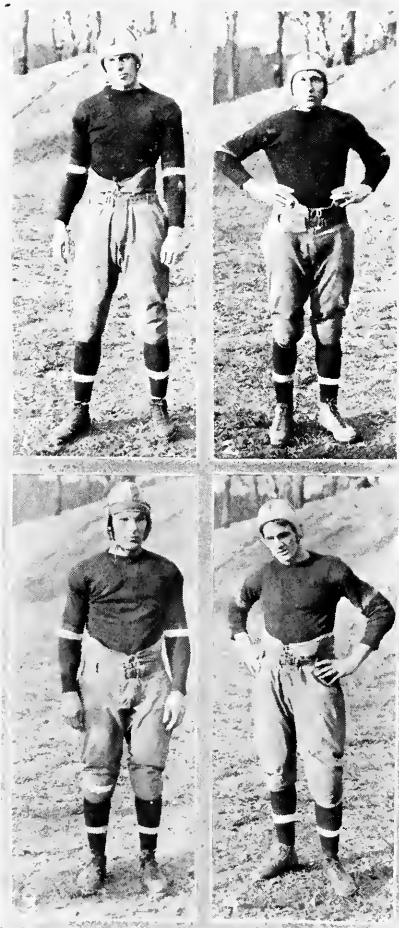

CHARLES LINDSAY

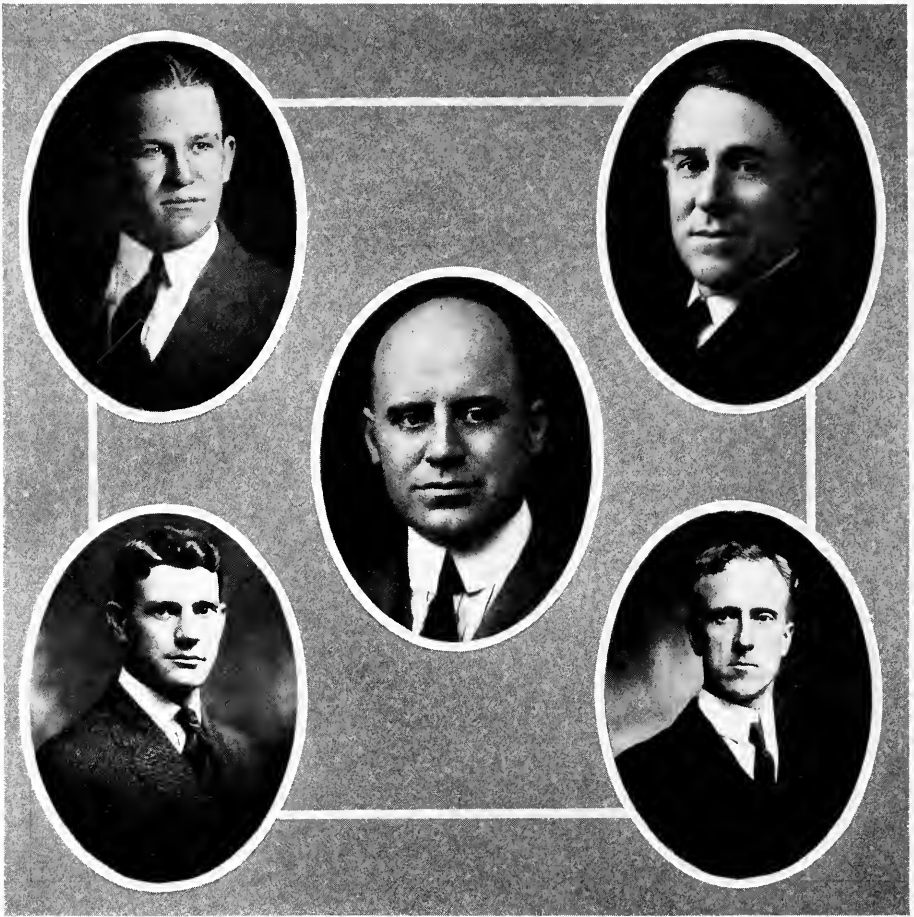

Tackle and End

Charley was one of the mainstays of Tennessee's heavy line. He could play end equally as well as tackle, and the Coach shifted him to this position several times to stop the enemies onslaught. Dartmouth was making long gains around one of Tennessee's ends until this crafty player was shifted to this position, and he caused the Dartmouth backs to resort to some other means of attack. Charley was one of the scrappiest players on the team, never faltering during a game, and always harrassing his opponent until the end.

Review of The 1921-22 Basketball Season

The 1921-22 basketball season was one of the most successful in the history of basketball at U. T. Winning 12 and tying 1 out of 20 games played is an excellent showing when considering the strength and advantages of the opposing teams. Every team which defeated Tennessee has a basketball court once again as large as the one U. T. practiced on. In the near future we hope this handicap can be remedied. The fine showing of the team is due in a great part to the excellent coaching of Coaches Banks and Hobt, and also to the good leadership of Captain Janes.

The first practice showed that there was going to be a fight for each position on the team. With a nucleus of six varsity men of last year's team and a number of prep-school stars, it looked as if Tennessee was going to head toward a Southern championship. After cutting the squad twice the following men were selected to go on the Virginia jaunt; Janes, Troutman, Cullis, Beane, Johnson, Dean, Campbell, Keister, Reeder and Hatcher. Johnson and Dean were playing excellent ball up till the Vandy game when they were declared ineligible. This broke up Coach Bank's combination but he soon whipped another one in shape which won the next six games. The most noteworthy features of the twenty games played were the defeating of Georgia Tech., lowering the "Commodore" colors twice and the defeating of the Knoxville Tigers and thus tucking away the city championship.

JOHNSON BIBLE COLLEGE 10—TENNESSEE 21

The game was played during the holidays, and very few men used, because most of them were out of the city. Tennessee had an easy victory and Coach Banks had the opportunity to look his prospects over.

KNOXVILLE TIGERS 15—TENNESSEE 15

It would be more appropriate to call this encounter the "Civil War" because it was brother against brother. This proved to be a whirlwind game, and it brought out many defects of the Vol aggregation.

MILLIGAN COLLEGE 14—TENNESSEE 31

This being the first game after the holidays, team work was lacking, but Tennessee came out with the long end of the score. Three teams were used, each "Five" displaying about the same brand of ball. Of the 15 men used those showing most conspicuously out of the multitude were Campbell, Dean, Johnson, Troutman and Beane.

CARSON-NEWMAN 12—TENNESSEE 28

As a whole the team worked much better in this game than in the previous one. The team was getting a greater degree of snap in its signals and team work was very much improved. Janes, Dean and Campbell seemed to be the better of the 15 men used.

KING COLLEGE 17—TENNESSEE 24

This was a closer game than Tennessee had expected, for the first half ended with the score 9 to 11 in favor of King. Campbell was the only man who had an eye for the basket, getting five field goals.

CHATTANOOGA 19—TENNESSEE 18

Capt. Redd of the "Moccasins", who made such a wonderful showing in the S. I. A. A. tournament, was the one who brought havoc in the Vol camp. With only a few minutes of play he looped one in from the center of the floor and gave Chattanooga the one point lead. Reeder and Beane did most of the scoring in this game, while Keister and Johnson showed up well at guard.

V. P. I. 26—TENNESSEE 19

This game was very close thruout. The first half ended with V. P. I. having a three point margin. In the closing minutes of play V. P. I.'s guards tossed in two long shots which gave them a good lead.

ROANOKE COLLEGE 28—TENNESSEE 33

The first half ended with the Vols on the short end of the score. In the last half they came back strong and with lightning passes and unexcelled goal tossing they caged 17 points while their opponents were making 2. Reeder and Campbell seemed to have had a magnet on the basket.

WASHINGTON AND LEE 40—TENNESSEE 11

The "Generals" seemed to have been in their glory, while the Tennessee cagemen appeared to have not gotten over the effects of the two previous games. Tennessee put up a hard fight and at times stopped the onslaught of the "Big Team", but to no avail because she came out the conqueror.

V. M. I. 26—TENNESSEE 19

The "Flying Cadets" the next night took another scalp from Tennessee, but not until they had put a scrappy encounter. Troutman was very adept in foul shooting.

VIRGINIA 31—TENNESSEE 21

This game turned out to be a foul shooting contest between Troutman and Carrington. Troutman garnered 10 free throws, while Carrington tossed in 12. The Vols had a 5 point lead before Virginia woke up, but things soon changed and Virginia came out the victor.

LYNCHBURG LODGE 32—TENNESSEE 21

The effects of the previous five hard games were beginning to tell and defeat was the result. Reeder did very good in this last encounter in Virginia.

KNOXVILLE TIGERS 26—TENNESSEE 32

This game proved to be a battle between the Reeder brothers, with Ross having the edge on his more experienced brother. In the second half the tigers came back strong but were unable to overcome the Vol. lead. Johnson showed up well at guard.

VANDERBILT 5—TENNESSEE 20

The highly touted "Commodore Five" was completely outclassed in this conflict. The new Vol combination worked to perfection. To give credit to any one man on the team would be unfair because every player was on his toes during the entire struggle.

EMORY AND HENRY 11—TENNESSEE 38

The score can easily give anyone an idea of the playing in this game. Reeder and Campbell appeared to be the stellar players.

GEORGIA TECH. 14—TENNESSEE 26

The victory over the Golden Tornado was not an easy one. Tennessee had the better of the conflict the first half but in the second half honors seemed to be evenly divided. Reeder was the high point man and Keister the outstanding guard.

CARSON-NEWMAN 14—TENNESSEE 29

It was a repetition of the previous game with this Five. Keister and Janes not only played a good defensive but also a good offensive game.

VANDERBILT 15—TENNESSEE 16

Having ended the first half on the short end of a 11 to 4 count, the Vols appeared to take on a new life in the second half and began an offensive that was not to be denied and as a result scored 12 points while the "Vandy Crew" were ringing 2 baskets. Reeder tossed the winning basket while Campbell and Beane played their usual stellar role.

S. I. A. A. TOURNAMENT

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE 18—TENNESSEE 19

This game was one of the roughest played during the tournament, a total of 39 fouls being called. Reeder's offensive work was the best displayed in the tournament, and brought forth many comments from the Atlanta critics. Reeder making 18 of the 19 points and Troutman tossing in the winning point made Tennessee the victor.

ALABAMA 29—TENNESSEE 25

At the end of the first half Tennessee was leading with the score 15 to 8. Capt. Janes was put out on account of fouls and Alabama was able to have her way in the last half. Reeder scored 13 points 4 of which were field goals while Beane also garnered 2 field goals and each of the other players succeeded in obtaining one basket each.

PALMER JANES
Guard—Captain

Janes has led the team through a most successful season, and this success was due in great part to the good leadership and playing displayed by him. His experience and knowledge of the game helped pull Tennessee out of the fire many times. The outcome of the S. I. A. A. Tournament might have been a different story if Palmer had not been put out of the Alabama game. He is one of the letter men who will not appear in the gym next year, and Tennessee will have a hard time finding some one to fill his shoes.

ROSS REEDER

Forward—Captain Elect

Bring in the adding machine when you put Reeder in the game, for he will toss them in as fast as you take them down. In the first game of the S. I. A. A. Tournament he scored 18 of Tennessee's 19 points, and the honor for scoring the most points for the entire season goes to him also. He received honorable mention for a place on the All-Southern five, so what more can be said of his ability. He was elected to Captain next year's team, and we are sure Ross will make an excellent leader.

BILL HATCHER
Forward

Bill played a good game this year, even better than last year. His knack of ringing up crisp shots gave the opposing guards much worry. His experience of last year was used to good advantage in the frays he participated in this season. This "tall boy" will no doubt be back next year, and we hope to hear of his making good on the varsity.

EARL KEISTER
Guard

This being his first year on a college five, he played his position in wonderful style. Earl stuck to the opposing forward like a bull dog and it was very seldom his man succeeded in scoring. His playing the latter part of the season showed every one that he was going to make a strong bid for next year's All-Southern.

DAVID BEANE

Forward

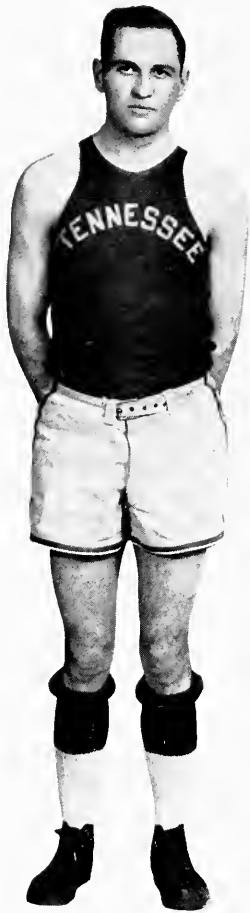

This Freshman can shoot them in from one end of the floor to the other. He was not only adept in his long shots but also a dangerous man at close range. He plays the floor well, and is continually harassing the opposing players. Next year, with a little more experience he should be one of the best in the South.

ROE CAMPBELL
Center

Roe is right on the heels of Reeder in the art of scoring. He was not only an excellent offensive player but on the defense he was a world of strength. His floor work was above par all season and could not have been beaten. In the second Vandy game, it was mainly the old fighting spirit of Roe which turned this game to victory.

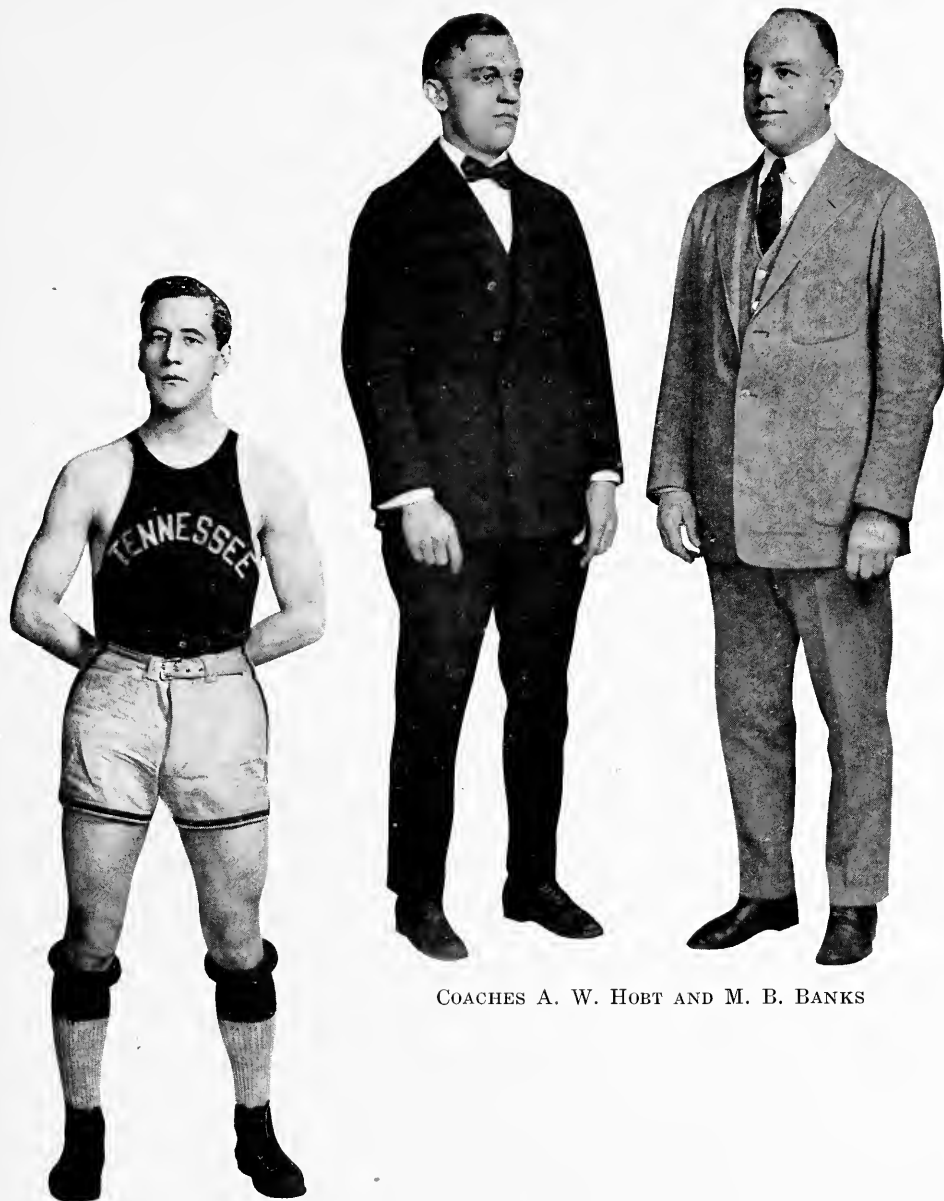

A. W. CULLIS
Guard

Cullis was everywhere at once and his defensive work was especially creditable. He also possesses a great deal of fighting spirit and never wants to give ground. In a few of the games he showed that his offensive work was the equal of his defensive. Having played one year at Maryville College and two at Tennessee he knows the tricks of the game, as few players do.

CON TROUTMAN
Forward

Here is another good player that Tennessee is losing this year. Con was Captain of last year's team and played a brilliant game all season. In the Virginia game, this year, he regained his old form and tossed 10 fouls besides his field goals. He also scored the winning point in the Mississippi game. Troutman has played four years of ball and has done a great deal in upholding the standard of old U. T.

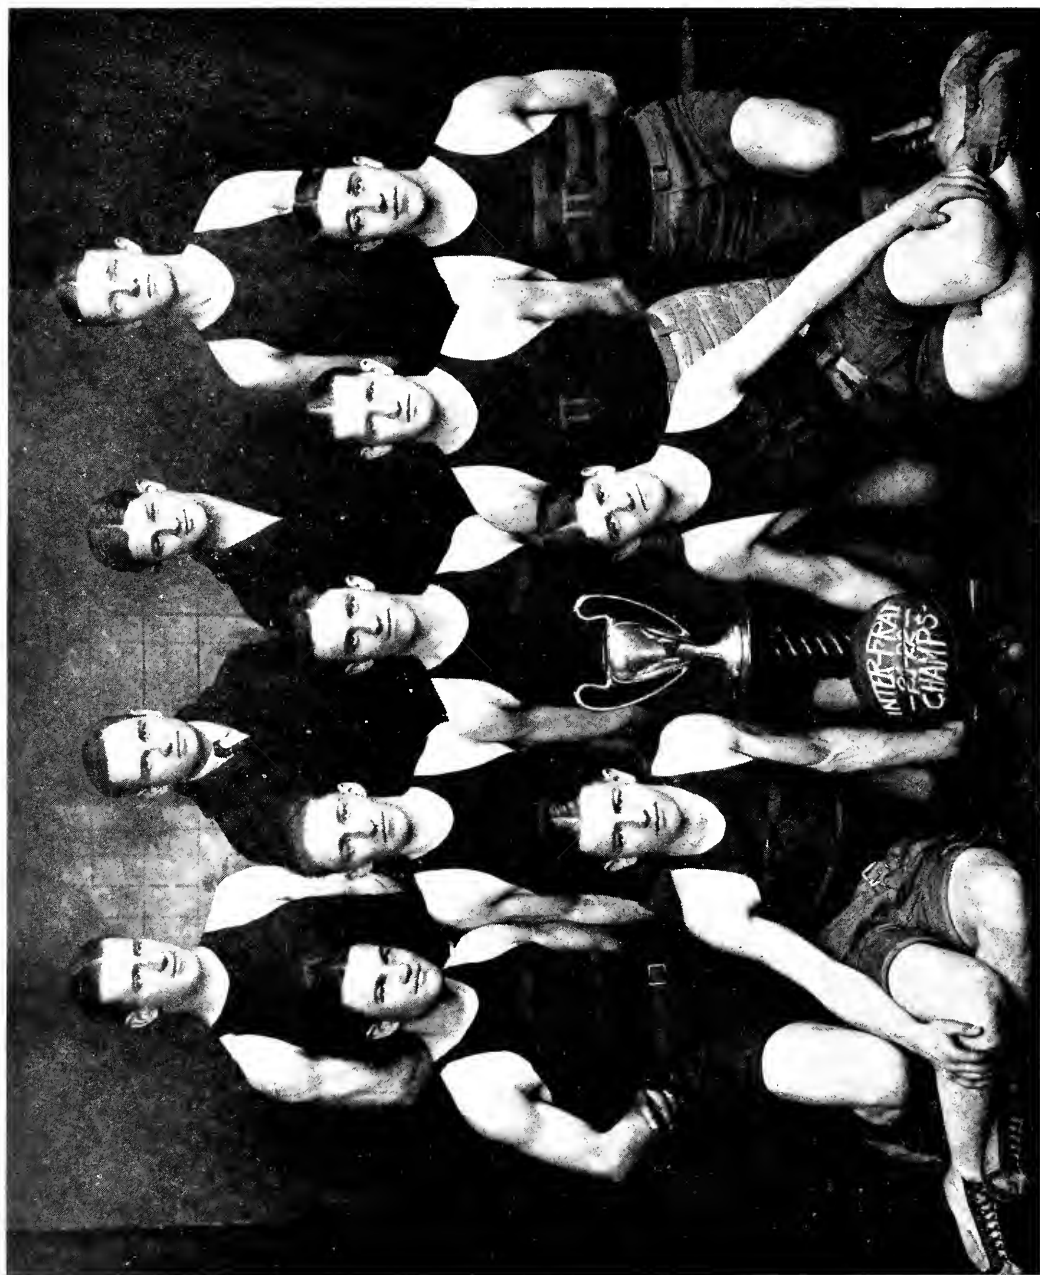

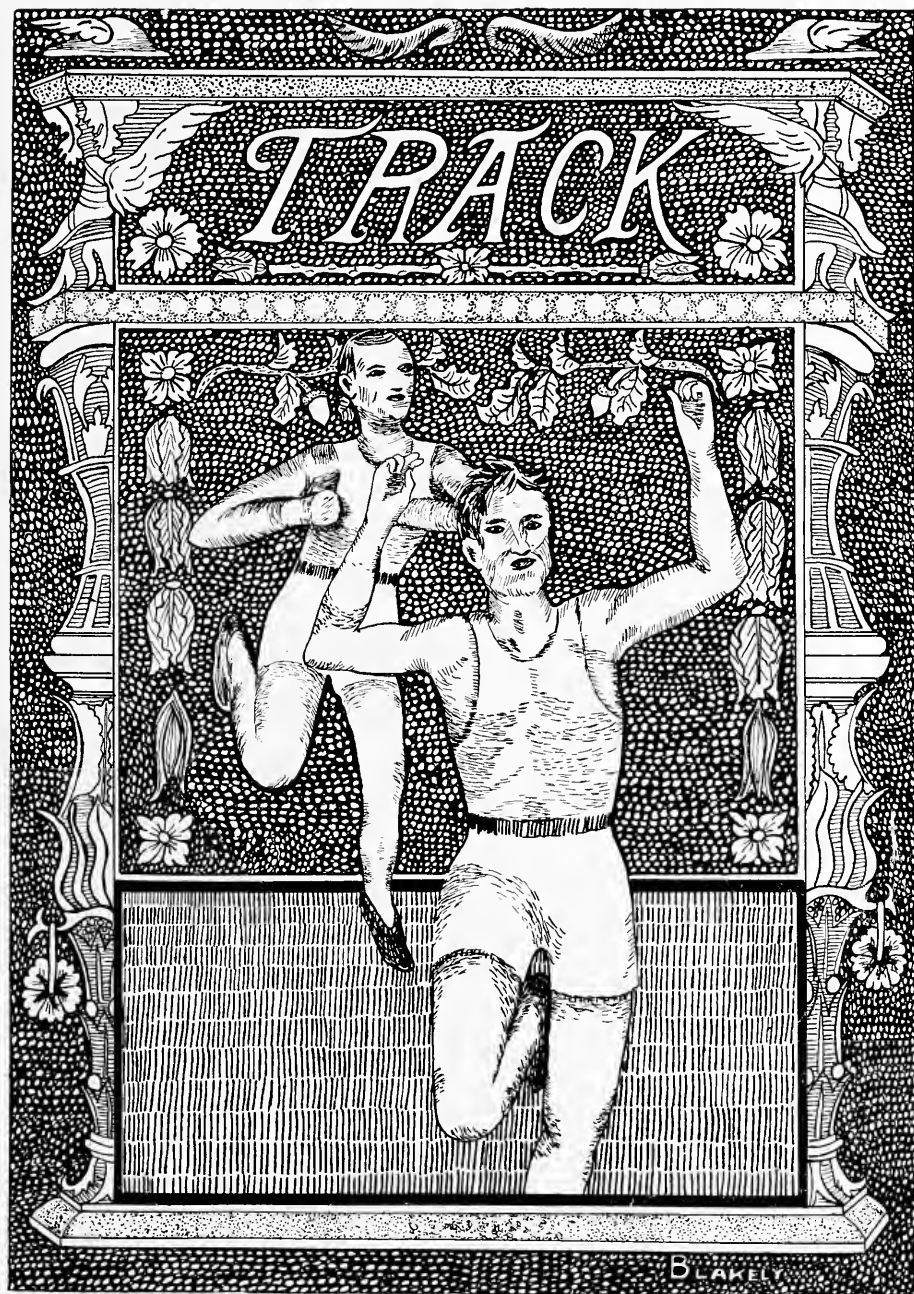

COACHES A. W. HOBT AND M. B. BANKS

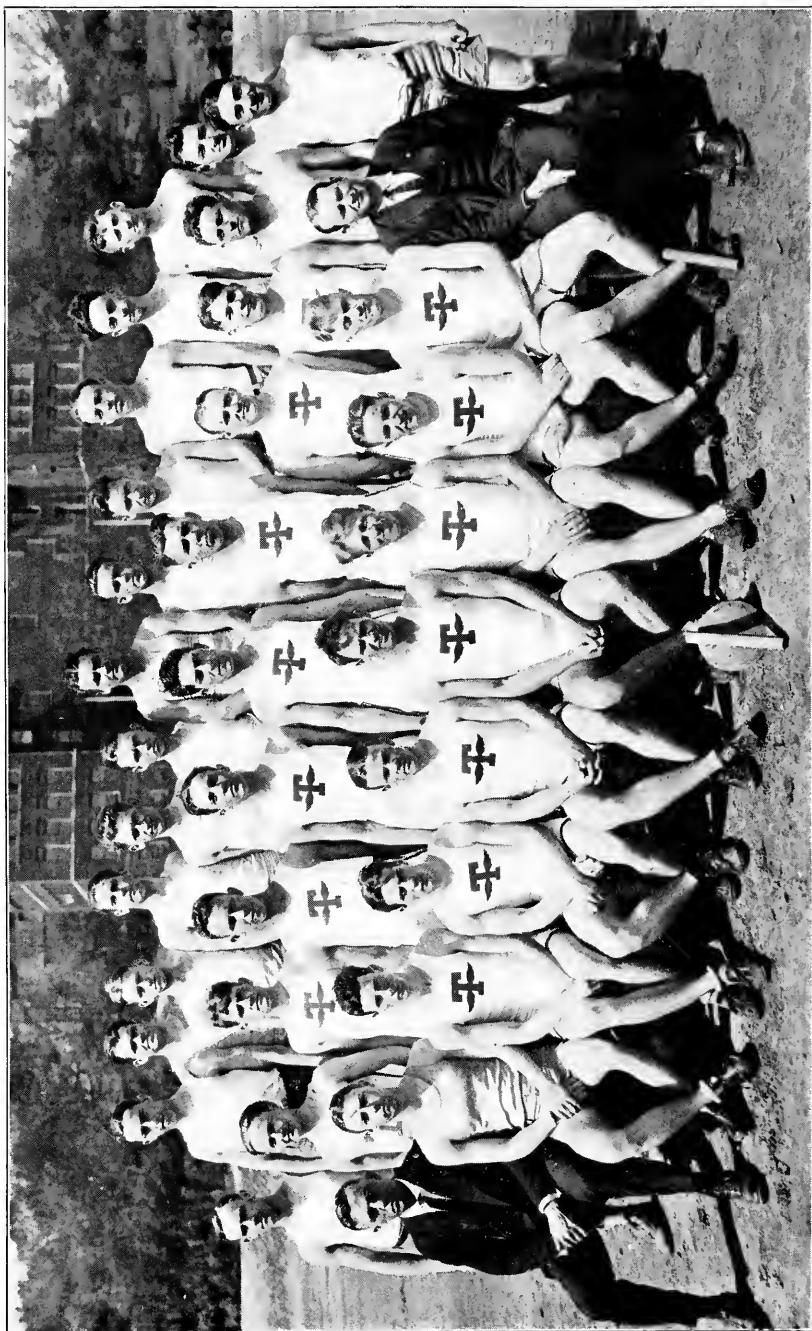

HOWARD JOHNSON
Guard

Here is an aggressive defensive man who can't be beaten. In the art of guarding, Johnson is right there as a stonewall and it is seldom that a man gets by him. He possesses an undaunted spirit and no team has succeeded in taking that spirit out of him. He was declared ineligible the latter part of the season, but will be on hand for next year.

STARTERS IN THE JOURNAL AND TRIBUNE RUN

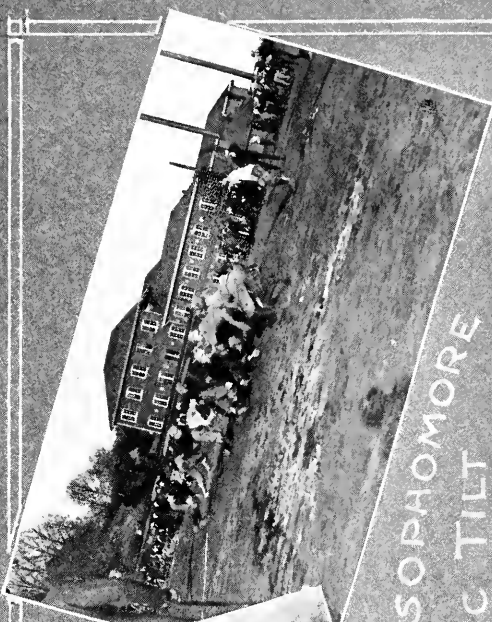

The Journal and Tribune Cross Country Run

The second annual Journal and Tribune University cross-country run held Thanksgiving day morning proved to be a big affair with many entrants and a big crowd on hand to see the finish. There were thirty entrants in all and the white clad runners as they ran along the road from the Cherokee Country Club to the University gate made a colorful appearance. The following entered: E. G. Terry, C. G. Cross, F. L. Mitchell, H. O. Warlick, M. Yater, C. F. Hamilton, R. W. Frost, J. R. Deatherage, B. A. Davis, W. E. Gallaher, J. L. Cannon, W. C. Yates, F. J. Guice, J. W. Cameron, H. N. Jernigan, H. R. Lowry, V. B. Laughter, H. L. Macon, W. R. Blachard, J. P. Porter, J. F. Adcock, E. B. Jenkins, C. R. Cross, J. A. Gifford, D. W. Reynolds, F. P. Swain, J. L. Roberts, H. B. Terry, P. E. Gieselman, L. B. Merriam, H. H. Horton, W. J. Durbin, J. H. Bennett.

Handsome medals of gold and silver were awarded to the first ten men. These medals were given by Fred Bonham of the Journal and Tribune who is a great track enthusiast and who believes that all young men should take part in some out-door exercise. The time this year was not quite as fast as last year but considering the bad road for about a half mile it might be considered good. Ben A. Davis, the University star quarter miler won first place in easy fashion and could have made a real record had been pushed, his time for the three and .6 miles was 22 minutes and 20 seconds. E. G. Terry took second, R. W. Frost, third, M. Yater, fourth, J. R. Deatherage fifth, P. E. Gieselman, sixth, C. F. Hamilton, seventh, J. P. Porter, eighth, J. H. Bennett, ninth and W. J. Durbin, tenth.

BASE BALL

THE SQUAD

Baseball Season

As the Volunteer goes to press, Tennessee has played only two games of her extensive schedule, but these two games have shown to us that the 1922 Vol nine is going to make a record that will long be remembered. At the first call for candidates, about fifty men reported to Coach Banks. After two weeks of practice he cut the squad to thirty men and kept this same number on the squad until the second Carson-Newman game when he made his final elimination.

The first Carson-Newman game turned out to be a victory for Tennessee by the score of 5-2. A number of men were substituted in this contest so it is hard to pick any outstanding players.

The second encounter with Carson-Newman was better than the first. The team had more life and were using their old batting eye to good advantage. Campbell pounded out a home run and Keister obtained a triple. Turner on the mound for Tennessee after the fifth, seemed to have the Parsons under his power.

FIRST TEAM

Phi Kappa Phi

The Phi Kappa Phi is an honor society dating its beginning from 1897. Three universities, The University of Maine, The University of Tennessee and The Pennsylvania State College are represented on the Seal by stars as the organizers of a fraternity to reward efforts toward, and to promote, scholarship for scholarship's sake. Three university presidents, President Harris of Maine, President Dabney of Tennessee and President Atherton of State College, will be remembered for founding the one Society which recognizes scholarship in all fields of knowledge, for this is the only one so inclusive. From three chapters, in twenty-five years, the Society has grown to include chapters in twenty-eight universities and colleges. From the eight students in the University of Maine who conceived the idea of such a Society, the membership has grown to five thousand six hundred twenty-eight. Five hundred seventy of these members belong to the Tennessee Chapter.

Phi Kappa Phi is a vital force in promoting scholarship, therefore, not only at Tennessee but throughout the entire land. Numerous institutions seek admittance to its chapter roll each year, and students where chapters exist recognize its standards by striving to attain them. At Tennessee twenty-eight students were admitted in 1921-22. Two faculty members were added.

Below is the list of members:

Gordon Cup

In 1913, Dr. C. H. Gordon of the Faculty of the University of Tennessee announced that he would award a loving cup to be known as the Gordon Fraternity cup to that chapter of a national fraternity in the University which had the highest average standing in scholarship for three consecutive terms. It was stipulated that in compiling the averages, the standings of the pledges were to be included with those of the active members. At the beginning of each term, when the averages for the preceding term are announced, the chapter standing highest is given possession of the cup for the current term.

The Angie Warren Perkins Cup

Those who have followed the fortunes of the University of Tennessee will recall (Mrs. Charles A.) Angie Warren Perkins as the first Dean of Women at our institution. Mrs. Perkins was the wife of Dr. Charles A. Perkins, professor of electrical engineering, also at the University. Although she later severed her official connection, Mrs. Perkins always maintained her interest in the welfare of Tennessee and all things pertaining to it.

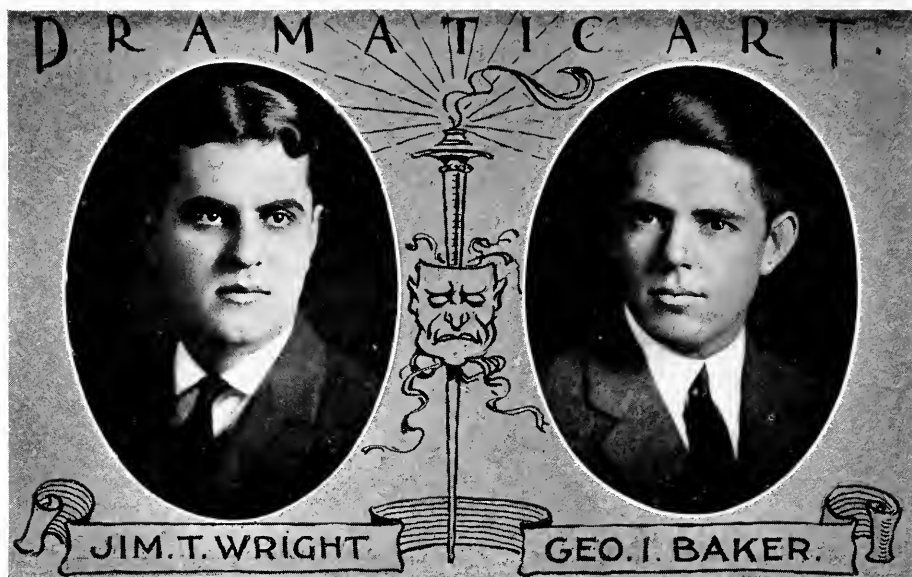

For several years, the fraternities contested for the Gordon Scholarship Cup. Perceiving the excellent results of such an offer, Mrs. Perkins donated the cup bearing her name for the sororities of the school in 1919.

Although Mrs. Perkins has been removed from this earthly realm by an untimely accident which ended a life of unselfish usefulness, the Angie Warren Perkins Cup has been perpetuated by relatives of the deceased, and will remain an honor that does proud any sorority at the University which may win it.

With the revival of a legitimate theatre in Knoxville, the University Players again became an active organization after two years of dormancy. In keeping with its policy of the past of presenting only Broadway productions, it chose for this year's performance the well known comedy success, "The Tailor-Made Man", by Henry James Smith.

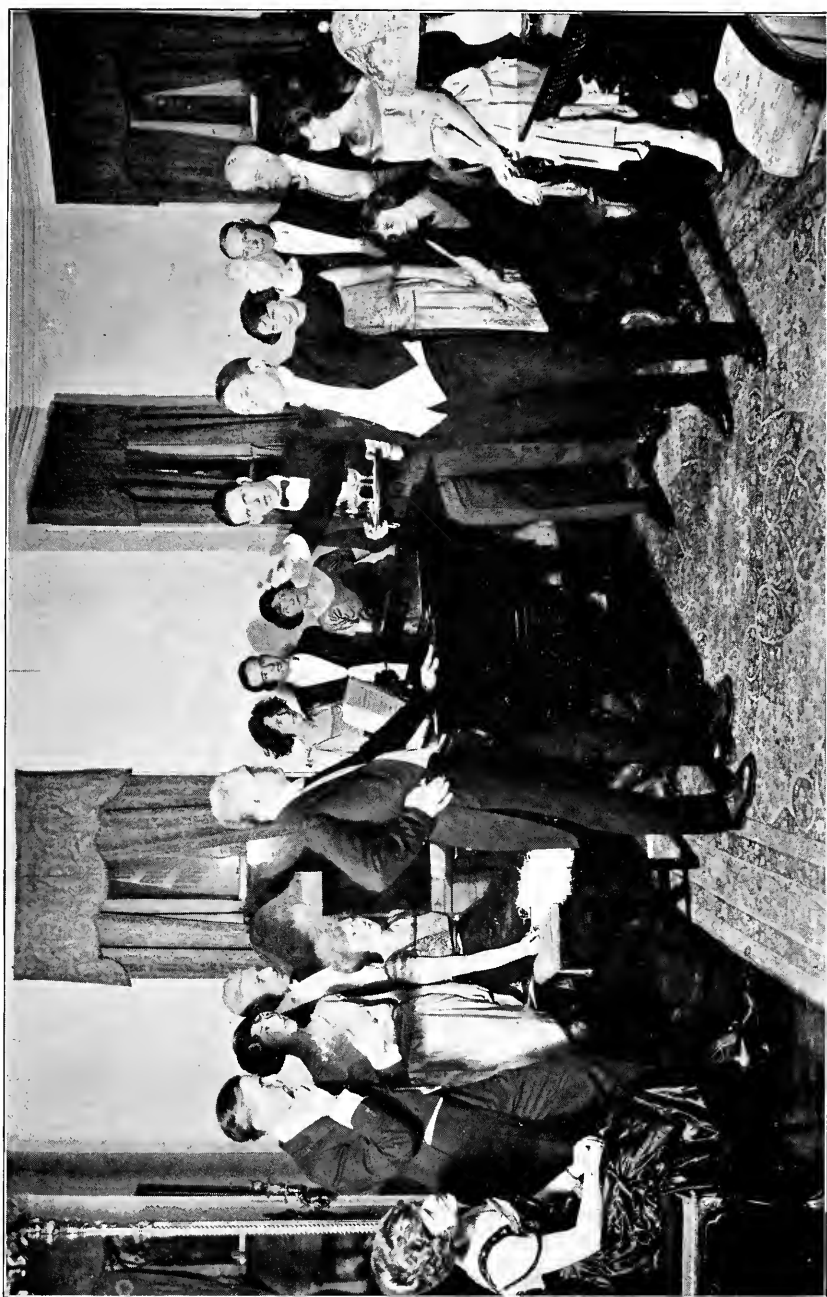

"Try-Outs" were held early in February, at which time about seventy-five attended and from this number, after very careful selection, the acting cast of twenty-four was chosen. Immediately, rehearsals were commenced under the most able direction of Mr. Frank Flenniken, who has contributed so much to the success of the University's dramatics.

How true and loyal the cast proved itself in attending and working at rehearsals and also how readily they absorbed the coaching of Mr. Flenniken, was most evident when the play was produced at the Bijou Theatre, the evening of March thirty-first. No amateur production in Knoxville has ever received, both from press and audience, such laudable criticism. This was well deserved, for it reflected not the work of a few members of the cast but the fact that every one in the play had devoted many hours in the honest and sincere endeavor of faithfully reproducing his character. The performance reflected the unity of action that is alone the result of many hours of rehearsals under a most competent and sympathetic director. The proceeds of the performance were given to the Armenian Relief Fund.

With such a success behind them, the University Players, for the first time in their history, took the "show on the road." Two performances were given, one at Harriman on May the fifth, the other at Lenoir City on May the sixth. The success of these performances was most gratifying and will undoubtedly lead to the "Players" of next year arranging a longer road trip. The cast both in their play and by their deportment reflected much praise to the University, which it was their pleasure to feel they had represented.

The members of the cast which developed such a splendid esprit de corps that enabled them to produce so successfully are:

Misses Elizabeth Gammon, Lois Jester, Anita Wilson, Mabel Jones, Frances Foute, Elizabeth Thielen, and Eula Love. Messrs. George Baker, Leonard Hurley, Henry Carlton, Sidney Samuel, Jim Wright, John Richards, Carter Myers, George Schaeffer, Kenneth Gresham, Jack Doughty, Jack Tate, Edward Preston, Walter Roberts, Howard Howlett, George Gillespie, Marion Gray and Bush Sneed.

INTENSELY HUMOROUS SCENE FROM "A TAILOR-MADE MAN"

CARNIVAL MANAGERS

Annual Carnival

The 1921 Annual Carnival was presented December 16, at the Knoxville High School Auditorium. Although held earlier than usual, the 1921 Carnival proved itself better than the average. Its success was due both to the leadership of able managers and the excellent support of the various college organizations. All of the fraternities, save one, and the sororities and other organizations presenting "stunts" in competition for the coveted prizes, furnished an interesting and varied programme.

The programme started promptly with the Pi Kappa Alpha's "stunt" "The Volunteer." This proved to be an excellent quartet, with black-faced comedy introduced. The Chi Omega's presented, "We Wanta Know" a clever sketch laid in a small town railroad station. "Advertisements", a human representation in puzzles of popular advertisements, was the Sigma Alpha Epsilon's stunt. In the next act, John Richards rendered "O Sole Mio" in a clever and ridiculous impersonation of an impressive prima donna. "Who Knows", an excellent parody on "The Arabian Knights" tales was presented by the Sigma Kappa's. The Sigma Phi Epsilon's stunt, most original and unusual, introduced Grizzard as a snake charmer playing with live snakes, many of which were poisonous. The Ag Club gave an imitation of the disturbances of a class proceeding the absence of its profession. Unfortunately the Kappa Sigma's "The Joy Killer", next on the programme was unable to be presented. An admirable pageant of the notable lovers throughout the centuries was fittingly the Zeta Tau Alpha Act. The Sigma Chi's presentation "The Woodland Scene" was a clever burlesque dramatization of a recent poem. J. J. Hudiberg next appeared in a comic exhibition of classical dancing. "African Chestnuts" humorous dialogue was presented by the Engineering Society. The Phi Gamma Delta's unearthed a mystery in showing the cause of the fire at Strong Hall Dormitory. "The Magic Potion", spooky transformations was the A. O. Pi's stunt. The Sigma Nu's stunt consisted of a burlesque upon the Sophomores at the Hill. The Phi Mu's presented "The Night Before Christmas", showing a shop with the toys awakened by a good fairy. The Kappa Alpha's "Much Ado About Nothing" was an imitation of one of the college professors "Day Dreams." A sketch showing the realization of girls day dreams was presented by the Home Economics Club. The Alpha Tau Omega's act showed the blooming of a Freshman under kind treatment. A Delta Pi's "Just Kids" next presented was a musical act featuring two clever musicians. The programme closed with the clever "Coffin Man", in which the gentleman playing the title role, after having been enclosed in the coffin and registering great distress, suddenly appeared walking down the aisle carrying the coffin keys.

After the Carnival the Coronation Ball was held at the Whittle Springs Pavilion. Miss Mary Aycock, elected Queen of the Carnival, was crowned by Mr. McClamrock, General Manager. Prizes were awarded to the following:

Best Fraternity Stunt:—First, S. P. E.'s. Second, S. A. E.'s.

Best Sorority Stunt:—First, Z. T. A.'s. Second, A. O. P.'s.

Best Club Stunt:—Home Economics Club.

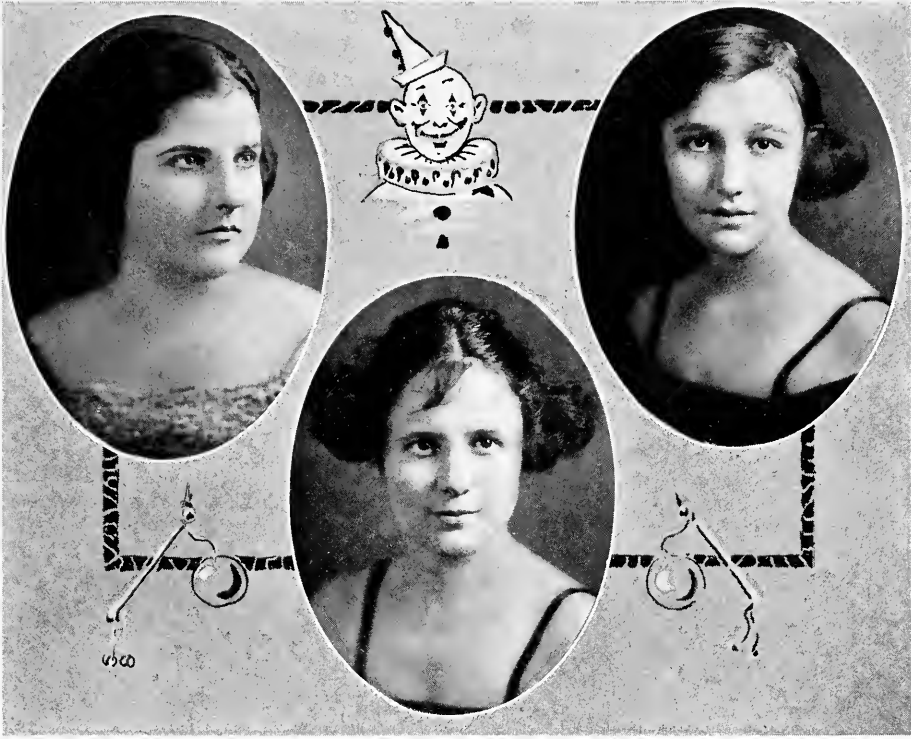

Best Individual Act:—John Richards.

CARNIVAL NOVELTIES

The Loafer

(Apologies to Mr. Kipling)

I've taken my dope when I've found it,
 I've loafed and I've loafed in my time,
 I've had my picking of places
 And four of the lot have been prime;
 One was the Estabrook highway,
 And one was the top of the Hill,
 One was the Humes Hall environs,
 And one was a Strong window-sill.

Now, I ain't had much s'perience with courting,
 But taking it all and along,
 I knew a sight more when I finished this job,
 Than I knew when it was begun—
 There were times when I thought they were truthing,
 And times when I knew that they lied;
 But how could they know I was peeping,
 While in the moonlight they sighed?

Now, I've taken my dope where I've found it,
 And now I must tell you my name,
 But I'm really not ready to part yet,
 With the knowledge I've managed to claim.
 But the end of it all is confessing,
 And dreaming of reckonings to be;
 So be warned by my lot, as I know you will not,
 And don't tell all that you see.

We thank you,
 Vivian Logue—Elizabeth Clinton—Anna Stokely
United we stand, divided we fall.

The "Jno. R. Neal Medal for Oratory" is given annually by Judge Jno. R. Neal of the College of Law to that male student who is declared most proficient in the art of oratory by the judges who are selected from the faculty.

Judge Neal offered this medal for the first time in 1920, in honor of his mother, the late Mrs. Neal.

Those contesting for the honor must first be selected by their respective societies, two being allowed to enter the final from each of the two men societies of the "Hill" Chi Delta and Philo, therefore leaving the last contest to four men.

In addition to this Dr. Neal offers a medal to be contested for by representatives of the various Prep Schools of the state to be held annually at the University. This is declamatory, and has proven a great impetus toward the creation of interest in public speaking among students stroughout the state.

This is indication of the great interest which Judge Neal has taken in the promotion of one of the most vital activities in High School or College life.

MORTON L. DEITCH

Pi Delta Epsilon Medal

To stimulate interest in the writing of news articles in the University, the Pi Delta Epsilon Journalistic Fraternity offered a medal to the writer of the best article during the session 1920-21. Much interest was manifested in the contest, and quite a number of students entered the competition. The award of the medal, which is pictured above, was made soon after the opening of school this year to Morton L. Deitch. The winning article was originally published in The Journal and Tribune, on the subject of Campus Day, the victor having acted as publicity agent for this great event in the history of the University.

Similar medals will probably be offered in future years by the Pi Delta Epsilon fraternity, which numbers some of the best journalists in school among its membership.

Chi Delta Wins Cup

In 1919 at a meeting of the Tau Kappa Alpha Intercollegiate Debating Fraternity it was decided by the members that something should be done toward arousing more interest in intersociety debating at the University. They thought, and very rightly so, that such action would be an impetus toward arousing a greater interest in the literary societies as well as doing much toward developing stronger intercollegiate debaters.

As a result of this decision a beautiful loving cup was offered. It was to be contested for by the three societies on the "Hill" and to be the permanent property of that society which won three out of five contests. The first contest ended in 1921.

with Chi Delta having won three straight victories, so the cup now adorns the beautiful new hall in Ayres Hall. Chi Delta was represented in the first two contests which were against the "Philomathesian" society, and "Thalia" society (for girls) by Sidney Allenburg and Burgin E. Dossett and in the last by Morton L. Deitch and Will H. Bamberg.

This cup is to be a standing future offer, and a more vigorous battle of wits, and a greater outburst of oratorical eloquence than has ever been displayed in the debating halls of the University is expected when the two men societies meet in the arena for the annual contest in 1922.

Debating Teams

In the annual triangular debate between the Universities of Tennessee, South Carolina, and Florida, U. T. was represented by B. E. Dossett, H. H. Baker, Fentress Rhodes, and G. B. Schaeffer, as pictured above. The first two named are veterans of last year's forensic contest.

The question for debate was "Resolved, That American coast-wise shipping should be exempt from the payment of Panama Canal dues."

Tennessee's affirmative, composed of Messrs. Dossett and Rhodes, met the University of Florida, at Columbia, S. C. The negative team, composed of Messrs. Baker and Schaeffer, opposed the University of South Carolina, at Gainesville, Florida.

The year 1921-1922 will be one long remembered in the annals of Chi Delta. The society has occupied for the first time its new debating room in Ayres Hall and it has been a very pleasant feeling, that the administration and trustees were so much interested in the welfare of the society to provide such a convenient and attractive meeting place.

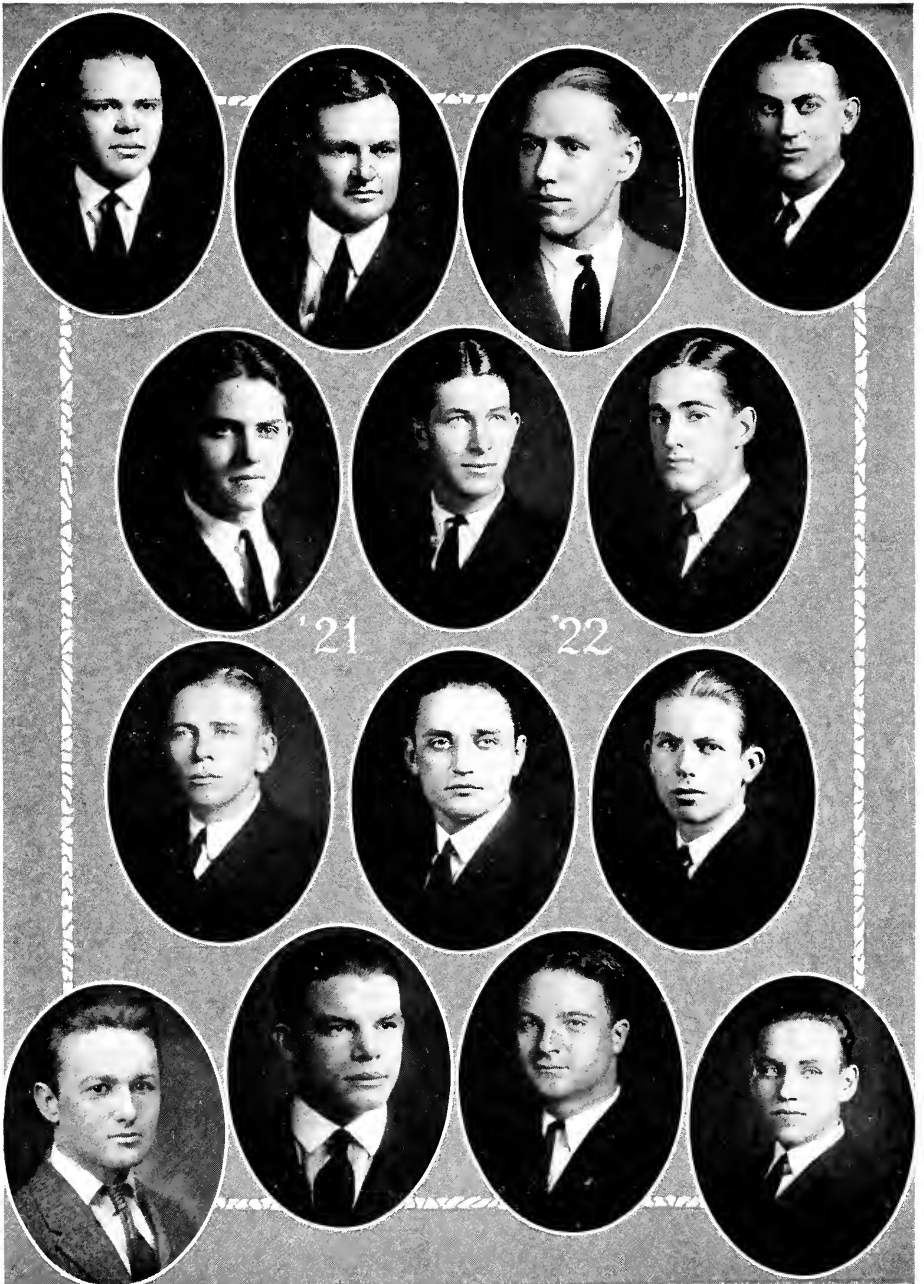

Chi Delta started out with a rush and in the early fall held the dedicatory exercises for the new hall. Prof. Harry Clark made the dedicatory address. A large crowd was present and listened with interest to the address of Prof. Clark. Dean Hoskins and Judge Neal also made brief talks, of a reminiscent character, which were highly appreciated by the audience.

The regular meetings were marked by good debates and very lively and sometimes stormy business sessions. Interest remained at a very high level, as is evidenced by the fact that there were enrolled fifty active and paid-up members during the year. A further indication of the work and interest of the membership was the fact that of the sixteen entries in the Intercollegiate Debating Tryout, thirteen came from Chi Delta.

It might be mentioned that in the spring of 1921, Chi Delta by a victory in an Inter-society debate, won and now permanently retains the Debating cup offered by the Tau Kappa Alpha Debating Fraternity.

PHILO

Philomathesian Literary Society

The Philo Society, which has a fine record for the past fifty years is completing one of the most successful years in its history. The members are taking great interest in society work and much is being accomplished. Several new members have been added to the roll and all are working hard for the betterment of the society and themselves.

Last year the society did not have a regular meeting place; but this year Philo has an almost Palacial meeting place in Ayres Hall. After the new Philo Hall is decorated as its members are planning it will be a new incentive for the Philos to work still harder in the future.

This year Philo has two of its members who are members of Tau Kappa Alpha Honorary Debating Fraternity. It also has thereof its members on the Interscholastic Triangular Debating Team. Eight of its members are members of the Alpha Phi Epsilon Honorary Literary Fraternity.

Thalia

The history of the Thalia Literary Society has indeed been a varied one. The present organization was preceded by the Women Student's Literary Society. No effort has been made to trace its history previous to this organization. What would it avail to delve into the archives of the dim and distant past and to resurrect the annals of a defunct literary society. Rather let one turn his face to the future, for a noble future lies before Thalia, the culmination of the culture, intellect and individual poise of all preceding societies.

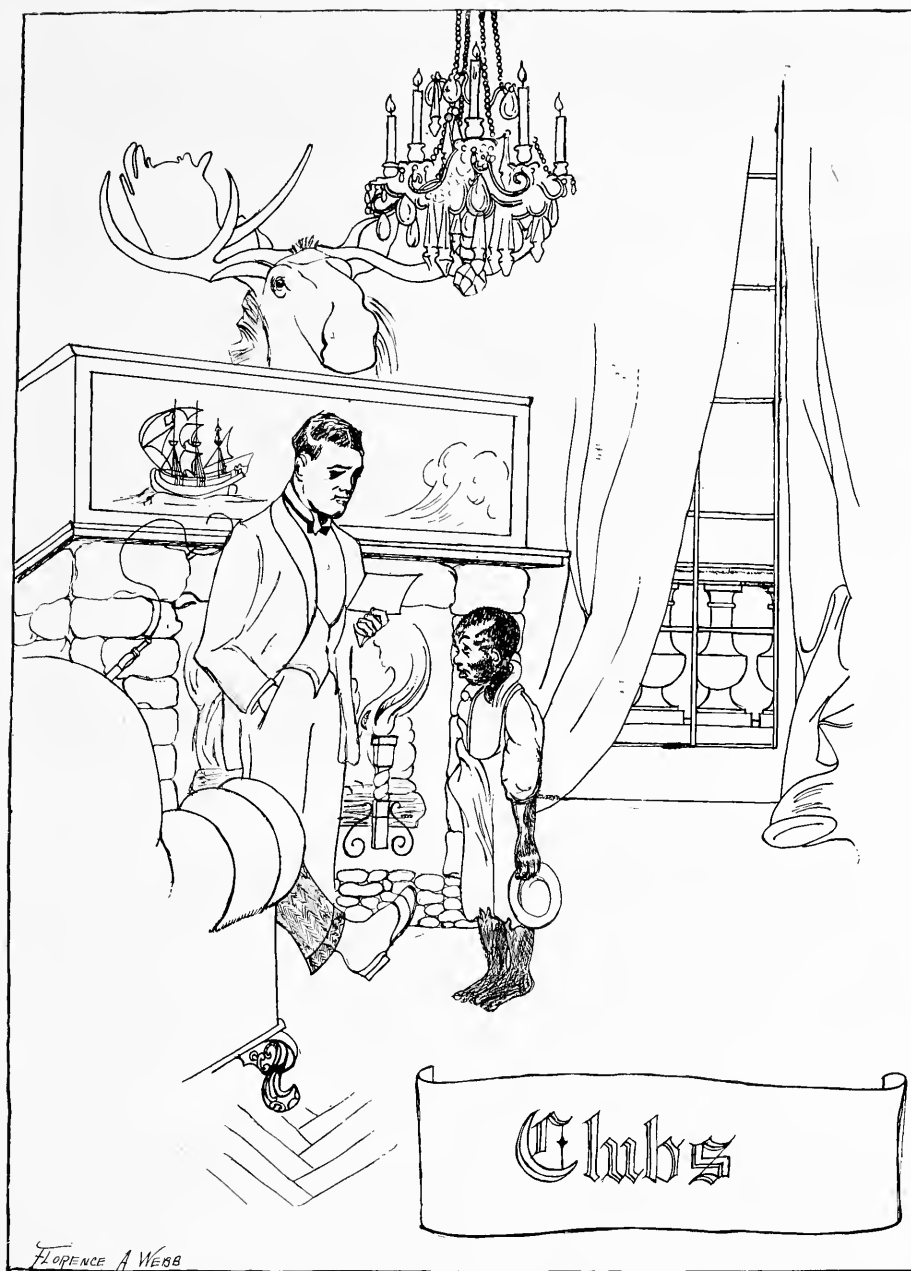

In 1920, under the capable leadership of Miss Imelda Stanton Thalia Literary Society embarked upon its career. Thalia, for the benefit of those unfamiliar with the classics, was the Muse of Comedy. During this first year Thalia had some fine meetings. There were frequent debates, and the line of modern authors and poets were studied. On several occasions Thalia and Chi Delta held joint meetings, when Thalia was properly impressed by the ready flow of wit of her brother organization. In the spring there was an inter-society debate between the two organizations, on which occasion Misses Lois Jester and Katherine Goddard credibly represented Thalia.

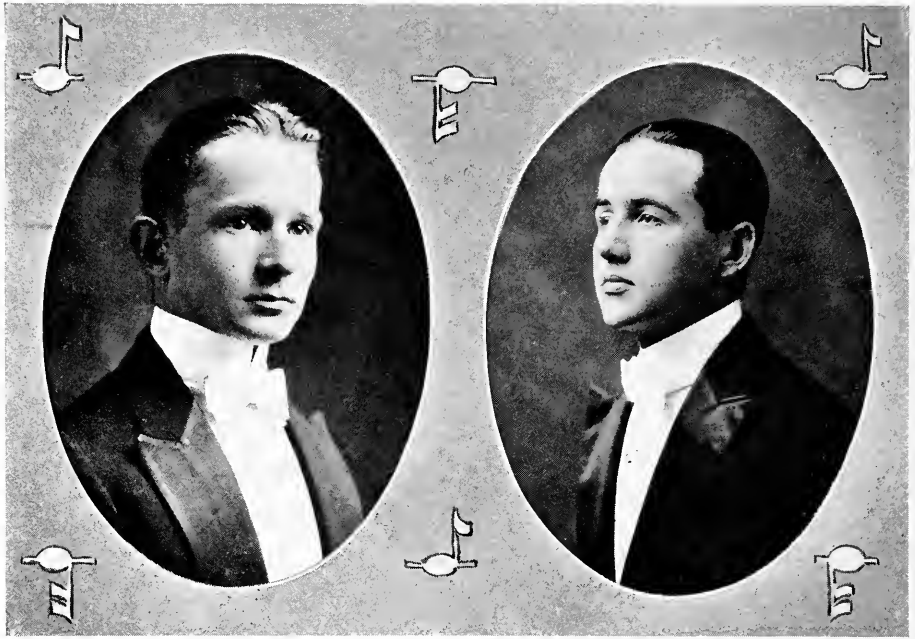

Notable among the early meetings of the present year was the one at which Miss Harriet C. Greve talked on the life and works of Knut Hamsun. Knut Hamsun's books became suddenly the most popular ones on the Hill, especially among the girls who had heard Miss Greve.

Later in the year Dr. Hamer addressed Thalia on the early history of Tennessee. His was a most fascinating talk, for no one had even dreamed the early days of Tennessee were so romantic.

There have been several joint meetings of Thalia and Chi Delta this year.

In spite of the large number of organizations on the Hill Thalia's influence has been far-reaching.

All-Students Club

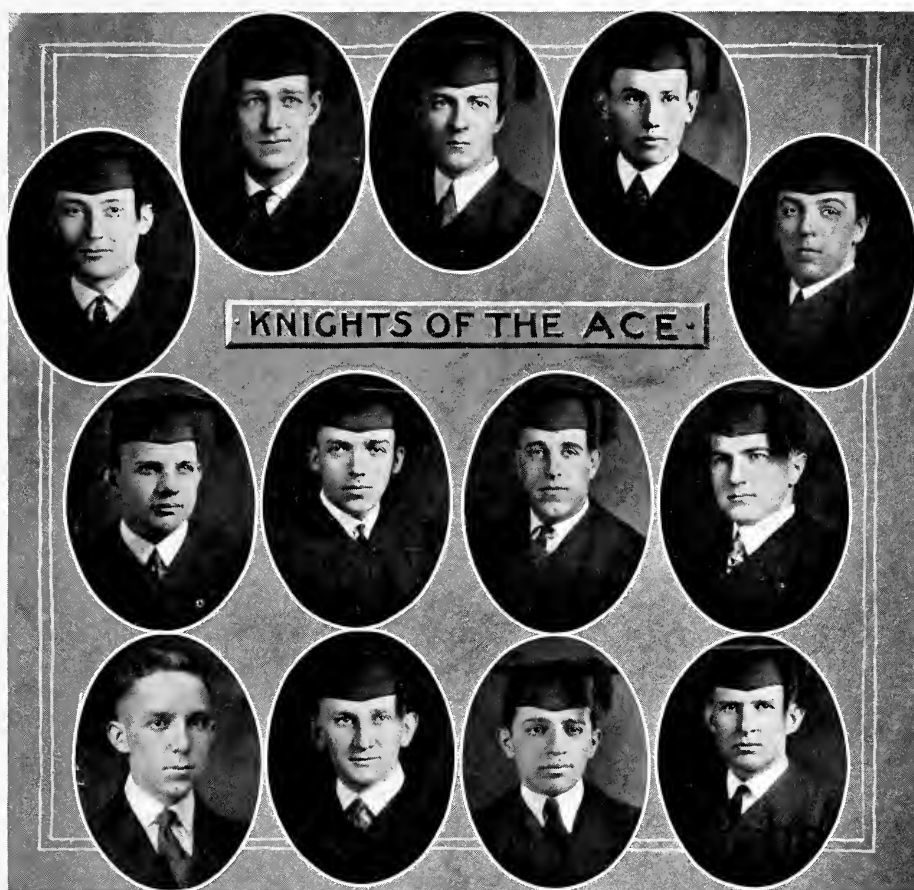

“Purpose. In order to facilitate relations between students and faculty, in order to crystalize the spirit and enthusiasm of all the students of the University and to insure a wise and more systematic application of it: it shall be the purpose of the “All-Students Club”: to foster spirit, enthusiasm and brotherhood among the students; to uphold at all times the good name of the University and to be instrumental in attracting new students; to cooperate and assist the faculty in all matters pertaining strictly to students activities. It shall perpetuate the desirable traditions of student life in the University and shall initiate with the consent of the faculty such customs and practices as may be deemed desirable in the future.”

The most striking example of the cooperation among the students and between the faculty and students, due to the All-Students Club was the send-off given the Fighting Vols when they left for Dartmouth. The faculty (or the University authorities) dismissed classes for the occasion and the students turned out one hundred percent strong for the monster parade from the Hill to the station. Such occasions as this require the cooperation of the entire faculty and student body and the All-Students Club furnishes the means to crystalize the spirit and enthusiasm of the entire University which makes such accomplishments possible.

During the school year of 1921-22 several amendments, which experience had proven would add to the efficiency of the workings of the Club were added to the All-Students Club Constitution. An amendment was adopted which states that the officers of the club shall be elected the first Monday in April for the following scholastic year. This amendment gives the new officers time to become accustomed to their duties under the guidance of the retiring officers.

The other amendments adopted this year changed the requirements of a quorum from one-third of the student body to the number present; provided that notice had been given to the student body at least one day prior to the date of the meeting. If notice had not been given one day prior to meeting, it requires one-third of the student body to constitute a quorum. This amendment eliminates the waste of time in counting the number present at the meetings and assures that business can be transacted whenever a meeting is properly called. These two amendments together with the amendment providing for a council have made the club very much more efficient in its workings.

Engineering Society Booms

During the past year the Engineering Society has been one of the most active and energetic organizations on the Hill under the capable leadership of Pres. Crump and his able staff of officers. It has been the policy of the Society to have outside men of experience in the Engineering Profession to give talks at the meetings and many well known and prominent men were secured this year for that purpose. The Engineering Society was first founded in 1904 and has been active ever since with the exception of two years.

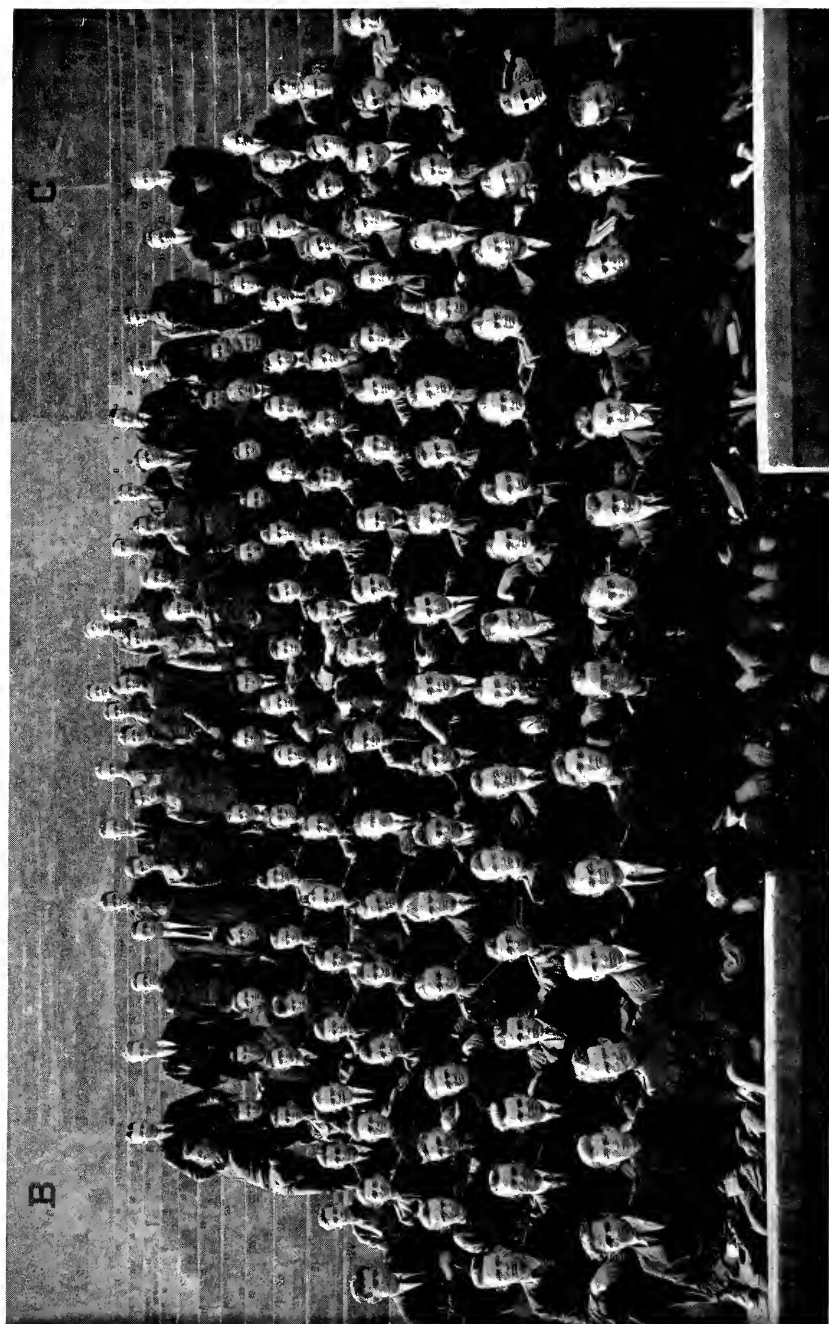

The Engineering Society is the official organization of Engineering students of the University and its purpose is not only to help those who are already here but also to let the people of the state and throughout the South know that the Engineering College of the University of Tennessee is one of the leading Engineering Colleges in the country.

During the football season the Society became well known by the "Engineers megaphone section" at all home games. The Engineers, equipped with their megaphones, went upon the field "en masse" and everyone who attended the games knew when the Engineers got there for the noise from the rooting section always increased greatly.

During the last term a rather extensive advertising campaign was carried on under the direction of "Doc" Howlett. A feature article was run in the leading newspapers of the state telling of the many advantages to be gained at the University of Tennessee. Plans were also perfected for an Engineering "News Letter" to be gotten out during the coming summer. It is expected that this will be a big aid to the University as a whole and to the Engineering College in particular.

The Society rarely failed to be honored by having one or more members of the faculty present at the meetings, Dean Ferris being one of our most faithful members. Other members of the faculty attended more or less regularly.

The Society also gave a Cup this year on which will be engraved the name of the best all around Freshman and Sophomore. The cup is a large and very handsome one and can be seen at any time in the Engineering Library where it will be kept permanently. This cup is a fitting memorial to the work done during the past year.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY

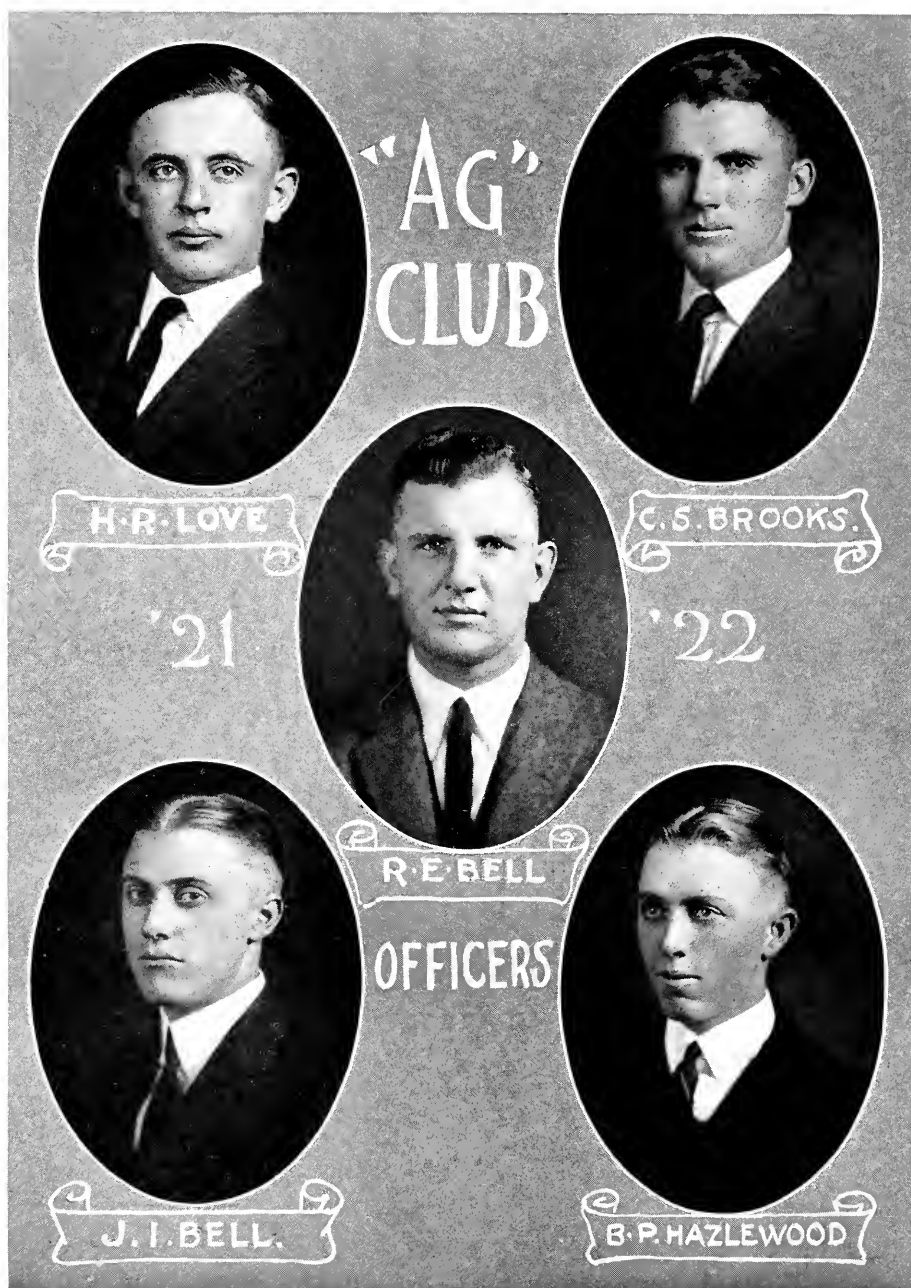

American Association of Engineers

The U. T. Chapter of the American Association of Engineers was organized at the University of Tennessee during the past year. The object of this organization is to promote Engineering interests and to have the members of the Engineering profession recognized. This organization is composed chiefly of experienced men from the Engineering profession but a few student chapters have been formed, Tennessee being one of the first Southern Colleges to be granted a student chapter. The "Professional Engineer" is the official organ of the A. A. E. and has done much for the benefit of the Engineers, especially the College Graduates. This organization has done much to pass the law whereby a man must have a license to call himself an Engineer.

In order to attain these ends the chapters agree to celebrate a common holiday sometime during the collegiate year. They further agree in so far as it is deemed advisable under local conditions to promote student publication and student government and to encourage athletics, dramatics, debates, oratory and other forms of student activities, which tend to broaden the scope of the engineer.

Any engineering student subscribing to the constitution of the organization may become a member and will be known as a Guard.

The term Knight or Lady applies only to those members of the Association, who are in their senior year, and having fulfilled all of their obligations of membership, have been duly knighted.

VOCATIONAL

History of the Mechanical Drafting Department

The demand for training in Mechanical Drafting dates back to the very beginning of the rehabilitation work at the University of Tennessee. In November, 1919, there were several men under authority of the Federal Board for Vocational Training with Mechanical Drafting as an objective. There was no separate course in this subject at that time, however, in fact, there was only one course arranged, a sort of general course in Engineering subjects and all of the students preparing for mechanical trades were required to take this double course regardless of their objective. This course included the subject of Mechanical Drafting and Sam E. Myrick was employed to teach it.

In the spring of 1921, however, Mr. Myrick, in co-operation with Prof. Woolrich and representatives of the Veterans' Bureau, worked out a very comprehensive drafting course arranged especially for training men who were specializing in this subject. This course was inaugurated in June, and the Mechanical Drafting division of the Vocational Department was established with Mr. Myrick at its head.

In addition to teaching the eight men who were specializing in drafting it became the duty of this department to teach the drafting required as an auxiliary subject in all the other courses carried by the Vocational department. Mr. Myrick was given four assistants, two in drafting work and one in English and one in Mathematics.

There are twelve men specializing in drafting at the present time and one hundred and twelve men taking it as an auxiliary course. The drafting room is made as much like a drafting office in a commercial plant as possible and is doing all of the drawing for the Machine Shop and Pattern Shop.

Power Engineers

(Seated)—John Sutton, Thomas H. Barker.

This department of the vocational work in the University is accomplishing excellent results, under the efficient supervision of Instructor Jessie K. Marquis. The men take a great deal of interest in the work, and future power engineers are being rapidly developed.

HISTORY AND ORIGIN

In September 1920, three men of the Vocational Department became interested in the study of surveying. Because these men were deficient in some of their high school work, it was considered impossible for them to take up regular work and become candidates for a degree in Civil Engineering.

At first these men were given two special subjects, "Construction of Roads and Pavements" under Prof. N. W. Dougherty, and "Plane Surveying" under Prof. H. B. Aiken.

At a conference with Dean C. E. Ferris on June 1, 1921, the need for more trained Highway Engineers was emphasized. Owing to the inactivity of railroad construction, and the increasing demand for more men for highway work, it was decided that jobs were more available in this particular field than any other department of engineering. Adopting Highway Engineering as an objective the course was officially organized. Mr. Robert P. Scott was selected as head of this department, assisted by instructors in the subjects of mathematics, English and Drawing. This department has grown from a class of three in 1920 to thirty-eight in 1922. The Highway Department has the distinction of having graduated the first men in the Vocational Department.

The routine of work is similar to that as outlined for the Freshmen and Sophomore surveying class in the Engineering Department of the University. In this course men are taught the different standard specifications of various types of road construction.

The main object of this course is to give the men actual experience, in such problems as will confront them in the field. The course is intended to be as practical as possible. Practical field problems are given, and in this way the men are actually taught how to do various kinds of work under different field conditions.

In the summer of 1921 the men were given the problems of relocating and making a complete survey of a road west of Lyon's View.

At present five of the class are engaged in surveying a road at Chilhowee Park. A complete survey of the park is also being made.

The organization of this department was a step in the right direction. It has resulted in benefits to the individual, the Vocational Department, and the University. The instruction prepares men not only for field work, but also as draftsmen. The tone and standards of the Vocational Department itself has been improved. We consider it as a compliment to this department that one of its members was last year voted: "Best All-Round Man on the Hill" by united vote of the Vocational Department and the student body of the University proper. We believe we have other men capable of sustaining the good reputation which the department has thus far earned.

The School of Auto Mechanics came into existence in September 1919, as among the first evidences of the arrival of the Vocational Department on the "Hill." Mr. Horace G. Jones, one of the best informed men on Auto Mechanics in the State, was the first head of the school. He was succeeded in September 1921 by Mr. R. W. Coward, who holds a B. S. degree from the University of Tennessee. Mr. Coward has been head of a similar school in the Hawaiian Islands during his term of service with the army. He is assisted in shop by Mr. R. B. Orr and Mr. W. D. Nowlin.

All Vocational students were originally admitted to instruction in this department. Later a course in Farm Mechanics was evolved to satisfy the needs of the agricultural students. This made possible a relatively small enrollment in the Auto school proper, insuring better opportunities for shop work and for individual attention to each man.

As yet, no "finished products" or "graduates" have gone forth from this school. This is mainly due to the fact that the equipment of the school has not yet reached a point commensurate with the character of the work it is trying to do. It is hoped that this dream will soon be realized. Those in charge feel that the progress made thus far, while not inconsiderable, bespeaks, only in a small way, what may be realized in the future.

Favourite Opera: "Tales of Hoffman."

Favourite Tool: "Mascot" Wrench.

Ag Section I

In Section 1 the agricultural students begin the preliminary work that leads to the courses in which they will later specialize. It is the first stepping stone in the agricultural courses. It is the bridge over which the would-be farmers must pass before they can reach Sections 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. The planks of this bridge are Principles of Agriculture, English, Mathematics, Farm Mechanics, Live Stock, and Science. Each of these subjects has a direct bearing on the problems and needs of the farmer. The instructors of this section believe in their men, and know that there is good material there which it is their business to bring to the surface. The following men are responsible for the Section 1 classes: Principles of Agriculture—J. C. Woodard; English—O. N. Smith; Mathematics—D. M. Brown; Farm Mechanics—W. C. Krueger; Live Stock—C. R. Robison; and Science—Osborn Andes.

THIS ANNUAL is just one of the many published by us this year. The fact that most of the College and School Annuals throughout this Southeastern Section are products of our presses is sufficient evidence, we believe, of our ability to produce the very highest quality of work and our reputation for making deliveries "on time." Our service is complete,—including drawings, grouping, retouching, engraving, designing and printing in one or more colors. ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖
